CYCLONE DESTROYS TWO MISSOURI TOWNS

Kirksville and Newtown Almost Wiped Out by a Terribly Destructive Wind and Electrical Storm.

HUNDRED PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES

Hundreds are Among the Injured--The Storm Struck the Town in the Early Evening While the People Were at Supper.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo, April 28.—Kirksville today is a scene of desolation and suffering as the result of last evening's tornado. Many of the dead and dying remained in the ruins of their homes during the night; others who had been found and taken to places of shelter died before morning.

A small army of doctors from the Osteopathy college, students and citizens spent the dark hours in a ceaseless hunt for the unfortunates; the dead were carried away to a selected spot to be cared for when the needs of the injured could be satisfied.

All night rescuers darted here and there among the debris, answering some cry for help—or directed by the sight of some struggling form fighting to escape imprisonment. Here and there fires that had started soon after the tornado passed, and which were allowed to burn, sent up a bright glow and lent aid to the rescuers. It is possible that these same fires incinerated some of the victims who could not be reached, and only days of search can reveal the true state of affairs. Morning broke bright and beautiful over the area of destruction.

The rambling search of the ruins pursued during the night gave way to systematic work.

Newtown, in Sullivan county, shared the fate of Kirksville at the hands of the tornado. Days must pass before a complete list of casualties can be secured and before the extent of the damage to her property can be known. Kirksville is the county seat of Adair county and has a population estimated at 5,000. The state normal school of the first district and business colleges are located there. The town is best known through the teachings of the American school of osteopathy. Persons afflicted with many diseases visit Kirksville to be treated, and it was in the students, and patients, quarters that the tornado wrought havoc.

The town is located in an agricultural region and is reached by the Wabash and Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railroads.

Newtown is a small town of 600 inhabitants in Sullivan county, forty miles north of Kirksville.

The tornado destroyed telephone and telegraph wires of Kirksville and not till 7:30 this morning was communication with the outside world resumed, and then only in an unsatisfactory sort of way.

WERE AT SUPPER.

The tornado which wrought such destruction, struck this town at 6:20 last evening, when most people were at supper. The entire east side of the city was wiped clean.

Over 200 buildings, homes and stores were leveled.

A heavy rain followed the cyclone and the debris of wrecked buildings took fire in several places, lighting the way for the rescuers.

Mayor Noonan, who has been active in rescue work, estimates that the death list may reach 100.

The cyclone approached Kirksville from the south, somewhat west, and missed the heart of the city by two or three blocks.

Reports from the country districts state that many farmers have suffered severely and that several lives have been lost outside of Kirksville.

Henry Lowe and three children, living three miles north of the town were crushed to death beneath their domolished home.

The other members of the family escaped. Other fatalities are reported from the country, but no names are given.

HALF OF TOWN DESTROYED.

The entire eastern half of the town was destroyed. The path of the storm was about 500 to 600 feet wide and hardly a dwelling in its course escaped. Frame houses were lifted from their foundations and crushed like egg shells. The more substantial buildings were badly wrecked and half a hundred persons at least are homeless.

The storm blew down the telegraph wires in and about the city and washed away the bridge over Medicine Creek, a small stream just south of the town.

A terrific electrical storm followed the tornado, and the excitement was intense. Women and children ran about the streets shrieking for their parents and friends, and men searched the ruins in the drenching rain, hoping to locate the bodies of victims. Houses of survivors were thrown open to those who were rendered homeless and everything done to [illegible]

HOLDING A REUNION.

Survivors of the Sultana Disaster Assemble in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O, April 28—Nearly one hundred survivers of the Sultana disaster gathered here in annual convention today, the occasion being the 35th anniversary of the event.

The session today was largely devoted to addresses and reports of officers.

Each year shows a marked decrease in the membership from death and the past year has been no exception in this respect.

The Sultana was a Mississippi river boat. On April 27, 1864, she was working her way up the river when a terrible explosion occurred. In the ensuing halt hour, hundreds of lives were lost. The disaster was considered one of the most appalling of the civil war. The Sultana was loaded down with soldiers.

ON THE RALEIGH.

President Goes Aboard the Fighting Cruiser.

He Makes a Speech--Words of High Praise for Dewey's Men--Captain Coghlan Receives Him.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—President McKinley and party paid a visit to the United States cruiser Raleigh, the only one of Admiral Dewey's fighting ships that has returned from Manila.

The president was received with the national salute from the Raleigh's guns

Accompanied by Captain Coghlan, the president proceeded to the cabin of the cruiser, where he held an informal reception. He was then escorted to the lower deck, on which the sailors were lined up for inspection.

Captain Coghlan introduced the men of the ship as follows:

"Mr. President, these are the men of the Raleigh. Part of them are from the flagship Olympia. They all served throughout the whole campaign."

After passing before them with bared head, Mr. McKinley addressed the Manila heroes as follows:

"Captain Coghlan and men of the Raleigh: It gives me very great pleasure to bid you welcome home, and to congratulate you and each one of you on the heroic part you played in the great battle on the 1st of May at Manila, which was a most glorious triumph of American arms, and made a new and most glorious page in American history.

"I assure you that when I give you welcome, I am only speaking the heart welcome of seventy-five millions American citizens who honor you all for your splendid service to our country.

"This feeling not only extends to your great admiral, whom we all love and honor, but to the humblest member of the crew who was in that great fleet at Manila bay.

He give you all a warm and generous welcome and my thanks."

Secretary of the Navy Long then addressed the sailors.

At the conclusion of Secretary Long's speech the sailors gave three cheers for the president of the United States, and three for the secretary of the navy.

This was followed by the ship's yell:

"Who are we, can't you see,
We are members of the new navee.
Rah, Rah, Rah, Raleigh."

This amused the president very much. The president then shook hands with the various officers of the cruiser and spoke a pleasant word to each.

MRS. GEORGE IS A FREE WOMAN

Jury Renders Verdict of Acquittal.

THE CROWD CHEERS

The Jury Was Out Twenty-four Hours.

Mrs. George Receives Congratulations of Her Friends--Expected Acquittal.

CANTON, April 28.—The jury in the George case returned a verdict of acquittal at 10:13 a. m.

A mighty cheer went up from the crowd in the court room when the verdict was announced.

The cheer was almost instantly taken up by the people who packed the streets. Mrs. George's face lit up with a smile as the words were spoken that made her a free woman.

She was immediately surrounded by a great throng who desired to congratulate her.

Mrs. George remained in the court for some time after the verdict was announced, acknowledging congratulations of her friends.

She then went to the Hotel Conrad, a block from the court house, in company with Mr. and Mrs. McElpeny, her cousins, who have been with her doing the trial, and at 12:15 lunched with them at the hotel.

The jury was out twenty-four hours and forty-five minutes, and during that time twenty-two ballots were cast. The interval between these ballots was spent in reviewing the case and discussing its various phases.

After the jury reported, it was said that the preliminary ballot was taken at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, or half an hour after they had been closeted in the jury room. This ballot showed four favoring a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, and eight jurymen for a verdict of not guilty, or acquittal. The second ballot was taken at 2 p m. and resulted the same.

This was also the result of the third ballot taken forty-five minutes later at 3:15 o'clock. The fourth ballot was taken and the result is said to have been guilty in the first degree two, seven not guilty, one for second degree and two for manslaughter. At 1 p. m. yesterday the fifth ballot was taken with the result of eight not guilty, the result of all the succeeding ballots up to the fourteenth ballot at 2 o'clock Friday morning.

The fifteenth ballot was taken at 4:55 o'clock Friday morning, resulting in nine for not guilty and three for manslaughter. The sixteenth ballot was not taken until 6:15 o'clock this morning when the ballot stood eight for not guilty, three for manslaughter and one for assault and battery.

At 10 a. m. today the twentieth ballot was taken, showing eleven for not guilty and one for first degree murder. The same result was obtained in the twenty-first ballot. The twenty-second and last ballot was taken at 10:22 o'clock with a unanimous vote for not guilty.

A number of her friends and acquaintances called on Mrs. George in the parlor of the Conrad hotel. Juryman Miller was one of the callers and to him Mrs. George expressed her warmest thanks, saying she had known him as her staunch friend from the first.

A number of congratulatory telegrams were delivered to her.

She said she would go to her old home in Hanoverton tomorrow and visit her mother for a few days. As to the future she said she had no definite plans as yet.

Mrs. George, continuing, said to an Associated Press representative:

"The verdict was what I had expected from the start. I am very grateful to the court and to the officials for the consideration they have shown me. I am also very thankful to the gentlemen who represented the press.

I cannot find words to express my feelings towards my attorneys. Their work was beyond all words. They left nothing undone in my behalf and I shall remember them and appreciate them, as long as I live."

She said her two boys will accompany her to visit her mother.

SCHLEY AND WHEELER.

Two Heroes of Santiago Are the Guests of Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 28.—Admiral Schley and General Joseph Wheeler, two heroes of the Americus club tonight, arrived on a special Baltimore and Ohio train from Washington at 6:35 o'clock this morning and despite the early hour the distinguished guests were greeted at the station by a crowd of several hundred. After breakfast at the Hotel Schenly, the party, which has been augmented by the arrival of Col. A. K. McClure, of Philadelphia, and Gen. W. J. Hullings, of Oil City, visited the armor plate plant at Homestead and the Firth-Stirling Projectile company at Demmplar, Pa.

In the afternoon a public reception was held at the Americus clubhouse.

GERMANS PROTEST.

St. Louis Publishers Declare Against Imperialism and Militarism.

ST. LOUIS, Mo, April 28.—Representatives of twenty German newspapers in Missouri met in the office of Dr. Emil Praetorius, editor of the Westliche Post, yesterday afternoon and after a lengthy discussion of the subjects, denounced the so-called attempts which have been made to create an unfriendly feeling between the United States and Germany. A resolution was also adopted as follows:

"True to the constitution and traditions of the republic we take a firm stand against militarism and imperialism, knowing that the American citizens stand almost unanimously against this new course, which would endanger the welfare and the future of the republic."

The resolutions are quite lengthy. In them were incorporated the famous words of Decatur. "My county, may she be always in the right, but, right or wrong, my country." Editor Schwartz of the Amerika, St Louis, and two or three others objected to inserting the phrase because if imperialism should carry in this country the adoption of the resolutions in this form would commit those present at the conference His objection resulted in the words being expunged from the resolutions which were signed by all who attended.

SAY QUAY WILL BE SEATED.

Reported That He Has Sixty Votes Pledged in His Behalf.

PITTSBURG, Pa, April 23.—Quay leaders here say that the plum tree statesman has just completed a poll of the senate and that he has sixty-seven votes pledged to seat him. A preliminary poll was made many weeks ago when Quay found that he could not be re elected. He then determined to hold his legislators together and continue the deadlock to the end of the session. The governor was pledged to appoint him if acquitted of the conspiracy charge. By the poll, which is claimed to be correct, Quay will have twenty-three votes more than enough to get in.

THE FILIPINOS HAVE HAD ENOUGH FIGHTING

General Luna's Staff Officers Enter American Lines to Sue for Peace.

WANT TO MAKE TERMS OF SURRENDER

General Otis Refuses to Recognize the Insurgent Government and the Rebels Are Disappointed--The End is Near.

MANILA, April 28.—4:25 a. m.—The Filipinos will seek peace. Col. Manuel Argueleses and Lieut. Jose Bernal, chief of General Lunas' staff, entered General MacArthurs' line bearing a flag of truce. They are en route for Manila by train to confer with General Otis regarding terms of surrender.

MISSION IS FRUITLESS.

Filipino Envoys Get no Terms From the American Commander.

MANILA, April 28.—6:30 P. M.—The Filipino advances for peace have been fruitless. Colonel Manuel Arguelese and Lieut. Jose Bernal, who came into General MacArthur's lines under a flag of truce, told General Otis that they were representatives of General Luna, who had been requested by Aguinaldo to ask General Otis for a cessation of hostilities in order to allow time for the summoning of the Filipino congress, which body would decide whether the people wanted peace.

General Otis replied that he did not recognize the existence of a Filipino government. There will be another conference tomorrow.

The Filipino officers walked down the railroad track to the Kansas regiments outposts at 9 o'clock this morning. The Kansas captain in command there escorted them to General Wheaton's headquarters, where they were provided with horses and sent to the headquarters of General MacArthur. The latter invited the Filipinos to sit down at lunch with him, and conversed with them for some time.

He refused, however, to speak authoritively on the subject of their errand, referring all inquiries to General Otis.

The Filipinos were then escorted by Major Mallony, of General MacArthur's staff, to Manila, reaching this place at 3 o'clock p. m.

General Otis' aide, Lieutenant Sladen, was awaiting their arrival at the depot with a carriage, in which they were driven to the palace entrance.

The Filipino officers attracted much attention. They were dressed in uniforms of checked blue and white cloth, and wore straw hats. They carried no side arms. They were escorted directly to the office of General Otis.

Jacob G. Schurman, president of the Philippine commission, and Hon Charles Denby, a member of the commission, soon joined the party there.

The news of the arrival of Filipino officers under a flag of truce spread through the city rapidly, and many officers gravitated to the corridors of the palace, while a crowd of natives gathered in the square opposite the palace.

At 5 o'clock the two Filipino officers, escorted by Lieutenant Sladen and Major Mallony, left the palace. They did not look at all elated as a result of their talk with General Otis and the members of the Philippine commission.

COULDN'T STAND IT.

Filipinos Unable to Face the Fire of the Americans.

MANILA, April 28.—8:20 a. m.—At Calumpit for the first time a large body of Filipinos attempted to face the Americans in open ground. The Filipinos in the trenches were dispersed after making a ridiculously feeble resistance; but General Lunas' brigade came upon the field from [illegible] cable on the double quick, the [illegible] ing river, which is higher than the north bank, could see General Luna, mounted on a black horse, galloping frantically along the lines and apparently exhorting his followers to make a stand. He finally succeeded in getting them spread in an extended line of battle which would have done credit to a civilized army.

But when the American bullets showered thickly among them, stirring clouds of dust from the sandy soil, the Filipinos again showed that no amount of drilling could fortify them sufficiently to make them face the American rifles and their train pulled up the track, with its load of dead and wounded, in plain sight of the Americans, who were entering the town so closely that the rebels barely slipped out of their victor's hands.

The Montana regiments made a rush to capture the train, running up the track, yelling shrilly and dropping their guns in the pursuit: but the engine backed off hastily, leaving the bodies of six warriors to their enemies.

Twenty Filipinos who came to meet the conquerors, bearing a white flag, declared heartily that they were sick of fighting, adding that food was very short in their camps. They ate the army rations given to them with an eagerness that testified to the truth of the latter statement. One who had been severely wounded dragged himself after his comrades, showing remarkable nerve.

Fifty Americans were overcome by the heat, and Col. Funston dropped utterly exhausted after the battle. The men of the Kansas regiment cheered him crazily when he went among them. Last night the flames of burning villages and scattered huts gave the horizon a glow as of sunset and the crackling of the bamboos as they caught fire sounded like musketry in a battle.

If the American troops were not fighting the heat as well as the rebels, they might pursue the natives until they compelled them to scatter into the mountains; but the soldiers are so wilted that they must rest while the insurgents have time to reorganize, dig new trenches and fortify San Fernando, where it is expected they will attempt another battle.

The matter of the transportation of supplies also hampers General MacArthur's movements; since, with the railroad cut at the bridge over the Bagbag, it is difficult to supply so large an army in such a rough country.

WOULD RATHER NOT.

Americans Have a Violent Dislike to Bushwhacking.

MANILA, April 28.—11:45 a. m.—Yesterday furnished added proof that the United States troops have a fear of bushwhacking that is above their fear of battles. The Washington regiment, which is holding Taugig with three companies of the Twelfth regulars, engaged a large force of insurgents in a fight in the jungle. The Americans lost two killed and ten wounded.

The Filipinos have been massing at the mouth of the Pasig river, and it is estimated that there are 2,000 of them now there. They have mounted two guns—one a three-inch Krupp—and have thrown a number of shells into American lines.

The gunboat Napidan which is guarding the entrance to the river shelled a launch which was carrying supplies.

Yesterday a large force of rebels approached the town, seemingly bent upon luring the Americans from Calumpit. Three companies of the Washington troops rallied from the town and attacked the natives and found that they had their hands full. [illegible] other command

MUNICIPAL AFFIARS.

The Board of Works Decides to Pave East Lewis.

That Thoroughfare Will be Included in the Next Batch of Resolutions—Notes.

The board of works at its meeting last evening decided to include Lewis street in the next batch of streets which are to be paved. The petition first submitted for the paving of that street was the largest ever submitted for a street improvement and it was for asphalt, but there was a change in sentiment and a majority asked for brick inasmuch as brick has been used between the tracks. It is believed work can be commenced on the street not later than June 1.

Resolutions were necessary for the work, owing to the varying width of the street. It is uniform in width from Lafayette to Hanna, and at the latter point it narrows down, to widen out again at Francis. At Winter street there is another jog and the street is then uniform as far as Walton avenue.

Mayor Scherer asked the board to take some action towards purchasing the single lot which lies almost in the center of North Side park. The lot belongs to a Mr. Zollinger, who lives in Topeka, Kas., and the mayor stated that the owner was willing to sell it. The board will open negotiations with Mr. Zollinger.

Action on the matter of grading Fulton street was delayed until the street, which is now only sixteen feet wide from curb to curb, can be widened.

The petition of C. W. Branstrator and others, for the construction of sidewalks on the south side of Home avenue, from Fairfield to South Wayne avenue, was favorably acted on, and the board ordered plans for a sewer.

Dr. G. B. McGoogan asked that a sewer be constructed in the fall in P. A. Randall's sub division, and the board promised to look into the avisability of having the work done.

THROUGH BRITAIN.

Rev. Leeper Describes His Trip Through the Islands.

The illustrated lecture given by Rev. Leeper at the Westminster church last evening, discribing his trip through the lands of the shamrock, rose and thistle, was enjoyed by a large and interested audience. The views used in the stereopticon were nearly all taken by Rev. Leeper during his trip. These pictures are of places of great historical interest both ancient and modern, and bring one face to face with those scenes which have been immortalized by writers as being associated with the names and lives of great men and women. Many rural scenes of great beauty were also pictured on the canvas.

Owing to lack of time it was impossible to show the views of Scotland and Ireland and it was announced that the lecture would be continued a week from next Sunday. Mr. Leeper will then deliver a lecture on "Impressions of Religious Life Across the Sea" and views of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral will be shown in the course of the lecture. A lady in the audience fainted from the effects of the heat and had to be assisted out of the church.

THE BUILDING TRADES.

A Well Attended Meeting Addressed by Mr. Kennedy.

The meeting held last evening at the city hall in the interest of the men engaged in the building trades was very well attended and the address made by D. F. Kennedy, state organizer for the American Federation of Labor, was listened to with great interest.

Mr. Kennedy showed in a clear way the advantages of organization and pointed out the fact that very often the most skilled labor is paid for at a very low rate for the reason that there is no organization. An example of this is the case of the watch makers, the highest class of skilled labor, who receive only a day laborer's pay. He also gave other illustrations where skilled labor cannot command the highest rates because no organization exists. Mr. Kennedy said that there were trades requiring a great deal less skill and intelligence who were receiving a high rate of wages because of their union. In many cities, among which is Fort Wayne, the hod carriers receive more than skilled carpenters for the reason that they have an organization.

Another cause of low wages in the building trades was in the fact that many journeymen want to become contractors and when there are a number of builders in a town building prices are run down to a low level on account of the competition. If the contractors and the journeymen would work together the result would be a greater demand for labor which would benefit every class of workmen.

As a result of Mr. Kennedy's work it is expected that there will be a general revival of the labor movement in this city.

Rev. T. J. Johnson, of Simpson M. E. church, gave a short address after Mr. Kennedy had concluded.

DISPATCH FROM OTIS.

Announces the Probability that the Fighting Is Over.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—General Otis telegraphs the war department this morning that the commanding general of the insurgents has received from the insurgent government directions to suspend hositilies pending negotiations for the termination of the war and that insurgent staff officers are now on the way to Manila for that porpose.

OTIS' DISPATCH.

The the text of General Otis' dispatch follows:

"MANILA, April 28.—Adjutant General, Washington: After taking Calumpit MacArthur's division crossed the Rio Grande river in the face of great obstacles, driving the concentrated forces of the enemy back on the railroad two miles. MacArthur reports the passage of the river a remarkable military achivement, the success of which was due to daring skill and determination of Colonel Funston, under discriminating control of General Wheaton. Casualities slight, number not yet ascertained. This morning chief of staff from commanding general of insurgent forces entered our lines to express admiration of the wonderful feat of the American army in forcing passage of the river, which was thought impossible. Staff officer reports that insurgents' commanding general has received from insurgent government directions to suspend hostilities pending negotiations for the termination of the war. Staff officer with party is now en route to Manila and will arrive soon.

"Lawton's forces well in hand in vicinity of Angat, east of Calumpit, where he is waiting supplies to be sent tomorrow. Yesterday morning force of 1,500 insurgents attacked troops at Taguig; driven back by Washington regiment.

"Our loss two killed, twelve wounded. OTIS."

The dispatch from General Otis came just at the beginning of the official day here. There was a feeling of profound relief expressed at once on all sides, for during the last three days the officials have been much depressed by the reports that came from the front.

The Associated Press bulletin, dated at the close of today from Manila, stating that the negotiations for peace had not been successful that day, but that another conference would occur tomorrow, did not have any substantial effect in repressing the expression of satisfaction. It was remembered by the officials that General Toral, at Santiago, did not surrender at the first instance, and that several days were occupied in the negotiations which finally resulted in the capitulation. In some respects the situation at Calumpit bears a striking resemblance to that existing at Santiago just prior to the break down of the Spanish resistance.

The Spaniards were hungry and insufficiently supplied, just as are the Filipinos.

They sought first to escape the humilation of a surrender; to march out with the honors of war; to carry off their arms, but they were obliged to abandon all these points, just as the Filipinos will be forced to do in a short time, according to the expectations of the officials here.

Secretary Alger was naturally highly gratified at the news. He approved thoroughly General Otis reply to the Filipino delegation. But he made it clear that there was no dispotism on his part to interfere with Otis and the Philippine commission in making terms with the Filipinos to any greater degree than had been done in the conduct of the campaign. The secretary said that the Philippine commission had full power to arrange terms of surrender.

It is stated on the highest authority that under its instructions, the Philippine commission will deal most leniently with the insurgents when once convinced of their intention to cease fighting. The commission will not be technical nor captious as to the terms. It will be made plain to the revolting Filipinos that no grudges are to be charged up against them; that they are not to be punished in the Spanish fashion by wholesale executions of the leading spirits among them, and finally that they are not to lose their property. It is believed here that a powerful help to General Otis in bringing the campaign to a successful issue was the spreading among the rebels of a belief in the promises of the American government.

There is a disposition on the part of some of the officials here who will have much to say with the arrangement of final terms of peace to apprehend an undue insistence on the part of the American commander at Manila upon an immediate and unconditional surrender. It is believed that the Filipino general, simply wishing to avoid direct responsibility for the surrender which is inevitable, is asking for time in order that their congress may assume that responsibility.

It is said that the Philippine congress can be speedily got together for this purpose and thus save the pride of Aguinaldo.

The bravery of the American troops is highly commended. It was stated at the war department that Col. Funston would secure a brigadier general's commission as a reward for his services in the various engagements culminating in his daring and heroic feats yesterday. It was also stated that both Colonel Funston and the two men who crossed the river under fire of the enemy would secure medals of honer. High praise is given all the volunteers as it appears that they were every place where the fighting was going on.

SENATOR QUAY appears to have more facility in manipulating the senate of the United States than his own legislature.

AFTER carefully weighing the difference between Spanish soldiers and American soldiers Aguinaldo has found out something of the toughness of the proposition he has undertaken to solve.

IF GREAT BRITAIN has finally resolved on administrating a thrashing to the Boers of the Transvaal, she can count on the necessity of a dozen of Tommy Atkins for every man Oom Paul marshals for defense of the republic. It is an arithmetical proposition that three times has been demonstsated.

IT is a rule and matter of consolation, usually, with fishermen that after a long and severe winter the fishing season following it will be good. This old rule has been established by the experience of old anglers and a good season is expected this year. The only drawback to the situation is the new law which allows no one to fish while the fishing is fresh.

THE state of Kansas may have spent some years "raising hades," as some of the sunflower newspapers expressed it, and may have had an overproduction, as it was also observed, but at the same time Kansas was raising as glorious a crop of heroes as ever breathed the smoke of battle. Nothing could exceed the intrepidity and dash of Col. Fred Funston and his brave boys of the Twentieth Kansas regiment in the fighting around Manila "Scrappy Fred" has won and should have the stars of a general.

A SUIT for damages has been instituted by one Washington dry goods firm against another, the complaint being that the defendant firm "maliciously, unlawfully and unjustly" conspired to persuade one of plaintiff's employes to leave his employ and enter that of the defendant, by reason of which the plaintiff was compelled to increase the clerk's salary in order to retain his services. The purpose of the suit is to determine whether an employer has the legal right to induce employes of other concerns to leave the service of the latter by offers of increased salaries.

THAT base ball is more civilizing and less brutal than bull-fighting has generally been taken for granted, but in the case of Havana and the Cubans the question is in doubt. A base ball game was played in the island metropolis the other day, of which the Times, of Cuba, referring to a crisis caused by a close decision by the umpire in the eighth inning, says: "The police took a hand in the affair, revolvers were drawn, and murder would have been done had not a detachment of the Seventh cavalry appeared on the scene with loaded guns to quell the disturbance." However, base ball crowds in the United States have now and then done a few things in the way of rioting themselves, though it is nos of record that the military was ever called out.

DANIEL M. BURNS, who will be appointed United States senator by Governor Gage, of California, to fill a vacancy that occurred while the legislature of that state was in session, has rather an unsavory record, but he is a great political power in the state and was chiefly instrumental in nominating Governor Gage and contributed liberally to his election. Mr. Burns is a native of Tennessee, and went with his parents to California in 1849, when he settled in Yolo county. He studied law, and early entered politics, serving two terms as county clerk of Yolo county. He was accused of embezzling funds of the county, but the charge was not pressed, as his friends made up the shortage. Again, when he was secretary of state, the charge of embezzling funds was made, but Burns pleaded that his deputy, Reynolds, took the money, and the jury acquitted Burns. When Reynolds was tried he accused Burns, and was also acquitted, so the investigation proved a farce.

THE END IN SIGHT.

The news from the Philippines today is about the best news that has come from that far-away achipelago since Dewey smashed Montejo's fleet nearly a year ago. Aguinaldo's army has been defeated, cut to pieces and the rebel chieftain is suing for peace. It is evident from the dispatches that the end of the war in the Philippines is near its end. The fighting Filipinos have had enough and want to quit. As soon as Aguinaldo will abandon his pretentions that there is a government other than American authority in the islands and that he is the head of it, General Otis will quit fighting him.

The Filipinos have discovered to be altogether true that of which they have been repeatedly warned. They have learned that in taking up the sword against the United States they have not had the mimicry of warfare that was the history of their fighting against Spain. They have encountered the authority of a government that is limitless in resources, determined in spirit and possessing generals and fighting men who never quit until there is victory to record. Since the Filipinos made their treacherous attack on the American lines early in February they have been pressed without cessation, have been fought without cessation, have known nothing but a succession of disasters and retreats. They cannot stand the awful perseverence of American soldiers. They have had enough.

It is a desire heavy on the hearts of all Americans that the war in the Philippines shall end. The Filipinos are misguided. They mistake the intent of the American government. If they will now lay down their arms good government with peace and prosperity will be the orderly process of affairs in the archipelago.

Cards have been received by friends of Frank Bursley Taylor from Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ketchum, of Mackinac, announcing the marriage of their daughter, Minetta, to Mr. Taylor. They will be at home after May 20th at 391 Fairfield avenue.

GONE TO SEE JOHN T. BRUSH

Jack Glasscock is Now in Indianapolis.

FIGHT FOR CARNEY.

President Power Notified of the Appeal.

The Buffaloes Win the First Game From Indianapolis--Base Ball Notes.

The Fort Wayne management received President Power's written notification in the Carney case this morning and as a result have determined to contest the award of Will Carney to Youngstown.

President Power admits that Carney did nothing that was wrong, but holds that according to base ball law Youngstown had thirty days in which to send the player advance money, although Carney had demanded that the advance money be sent with the contract. The contract came but no money and he refused to sign, but notified Manager Truby that if the advance was not received by April 4th he would not consider the Youngstown contract. The money did not arrive on the 4th and Carney returned his unsigned Youngstown contract and attached his name to the Fort Wayne instrument. Two days later the Youngstown money came and he sent it back. Now President Power holds that Youngstown had the privilege of withholding the money thirty days.

The Fort Wayne directors and Manager Glasscock do not believe that such a finding will hold and this morning Glasscock went to Indianapolis to confer with John T. Brush, a member of the board of arbitration. President Power was notified by telegraph this morning that Fort Wayne would appeal from his decision and carry the case to the national board of arbitration.

Carney received a telegram from President Guggenheim, last evening, which reads like this:

"Report here at once. Do you need a ticket? A royal welcome awaits you."

Carney didn't answer and asserts that he will not play ball with Youngstown. He gave them all the chance to carry out an agreement, they failed to do it and he feels that inasmuch as he has been accorded such fair and fine treatment here that Fort Wayne is where he wants to stay. The board of arbitration will be requested to make a decision as soon as possible.

NOTES.

Joe Ganzell has reported in Youngstown and will play first base.

Figgemeier, who was with Minneapolis last season, has signed with New Castle.

Tim Flood was hit on the forehead with the ball at Notre Dame and now carries a big scar.

Tom Loftus wants Manager Glasscock to take a left handed twirler named Powers and give him a trial.

The Kokomos arrived in the city on the Wabash noon train. The battery order this afternoon is as follows: Sear, 1f; Porter, 2b; Thomas, 3b; Zink, 1b; Letz, c; Edwards, c; McGuire, 1f; DeCamp, ss; Kennedy or Vasbinder, pitcher. Manager Goble is with the team which is registered at the Wayne.

Commissioner Wilson of the internal revenue bureau has decided that base ball games by college and amateur or local clubs for which an admission fee is charged are not subject to the special tax under the act of June 13, 1898.

Babb was strictly in the game at Indianapolis yesterday. He made one hit, one put-out and four assists and was at the front end of a fast double play. Charley will show those Western leaguers how to play third base this season.

The Toledos beat the Columbian Giants Wednesday with Wilson in the box. The big colored twirler was wild, however, and allowed the Mud Hens five runs in the first inning. He settled down afterward, but couldn't keep the ball over the plate and Miller relieved him.

The base ball directors could not reach an agreement with John H. Bass, and it will therefore be impossible for them to move back the the left field fence at the new base ball park. Contractor Borkenstein is today building the left field fence higher to prevent a view from Clinton street.

Manager Glasscock has decided to pitch Brodie in the first Toledo game next Sunday. A big delegation of Fort Wayneites are going to the Lake City on Dick Thompson's excursion over the Wabash and they will "root" for Brodie just as hard as for any other twirter. The train leaves at 7 a. m. and the team will accompany the excursionists.

Fort Wayne shut out the Notre Dames yesterday morning and the young man who has been sending complete scores to the Chicago papers didn't have the nerve to send in the full score for this game. Fort Wayne showed the collegians in the last game that they were only after practice and didn't have to let them win a game. Three of Notre Dames' best twirlers couldn't stop the locals.

The Eagle Stars have organized and are willing to meet any team in the city whose players are under seventeen years old. The line up of the Stars is as follows: James McVey, left field; Charles Geary, first base; William Achner, short stop; George Guley, third base; Frank Cromb, catcher; Walter Fremoth, right field and pitcher; Claude Birthaway, right field and pitcher; C. Kemp, center field.

Advices from Ed Herr are that he has been ill with a bad fever but is somewhat improved and may be in Fort Wayne on Sunday. His condition is such, however, that it is not believed he will be able to pitch for some time. If Carney cannot play here Manager Glasscock will be compelled to sign another twirler. It will hardly be Beam as his terms indicate that he thinks the Fort Wayne management owns a gold mine.

WOMANLY

A sweet woman, the picture of health, speaking with enthusiasm, said, "I don't see why you do not send out women to talk to women about the merits of Pabst Malt Extract, The "Best" Tonic. There are so many women that are run down, with nerves shattered, with a lack of vitality, feeling a sort of restless indecision which is an outgrowth of over-exertion. If you could only get a woman who knows as well as I do how "Best" Tonic will build one up, and who has enough earnestness to tell them about it, you would certainly have largely increased sales. There is Mrs. —, who was as thin as she could be, and her poor little baby, puny and undeveloped. I told her about "Best" Tonic. In three weeks you ought to see the difference. The improvement is something great; mother and baby both feel it and show it."

A FEW DIVORCES.

Four New Suits Filed in Two Courts.

Two Men and Two Women Are the Plaintiffs--Court Items of Interest.

Jessie Stackhouse vs. John Stackhouse was one of the divorce cases heard by Judge Hench. The allegations were cruel and inhuman treatment and refusal of defendant to live with plaintiff. The divorce was granted to plaintiff, who was given $500 alimony. The four children were given into the custody of the defendant until further orders of the court.

Another divorce case filed was that of Geraldine Lane vs. E. F. Lane. The complaint could not be found, neither was the case entered on the entry docket, and Clerk Belot was too busy to answer The Sentinel reporter when he tried to find out something about where the complaint was. There was no receipt for the complaint and it may be lost.

Jennie Young has commenced suit for divorce from John G. Young, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married August 4, 1886, and separated April 26, 1899. Plaintiff alleges that on April 23 last defendant kicked and choked her and has continued to abuse her. She asks for the custody of the two children, Homer G., aged 12 years, and Myrtle Fontana, aged 2 years.

Wallace W. Huntsman petitions for a divorce from Susie E. Huntsman, alleging adultery.

Margaretta Rushton, who was granted a divorce from Frank E. Rushton four years ago, asks that it be made of record, thus fulfilling all requirements of the law for a legal separation.

CRIMINAL CASES.

John Carroll, through his attorney, John Aiken, to-day entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and grand larceny and was sentenced by Judge O'Rourke to serve from one to fourteen years in the northern prison.

Irving Rader was arraigned on a charge of petit larceny. His attorney, P. B. Colerick, entered a plea of not guilty and the case was set for trial May 26.

COMMISSIONERS HERE.

Auditor Harry B. Smith and Commissioners John McGregor, James E. Greer and Henry Harding, of Marion county, arrived in Fort Wayne last evening and left for Indianapolis at noon to-day. They intend to build a county infirmary at Indianapolis and were visiting the Indiana infirmaries. They were especially pleased with the Allen county infirmary and said that it was the best managed in the state. They had intended building the superintendent's residence as a part of the infirmary building, but changed their minds when they saw Superintendent Kelts' residence. They admitted that Fort Wayne would have one of the finest court houses in the country.

SCHELL STILL IN JAIL.

J. F. Schell's friends have been unable to furnish bond, which has been reduced to $2,000. The prisoner was very ill yesterday, and his condition today is not at all improved. Friends are fearful that if he remains in jail he cannot live. The effort to secure bail has not been abandoned, and it is believed by his attorney that Mr. Schell will soon be released.

COURT NOTES.

The case of Michael Finney vs. the Pennsylvania railway has been dismissed by Judge Hench. It has been pending in the superior court for ten years. Once the case was carried to the supreme court and there reversed and sent back for trial. Now the plaintiff has abandoned the suit.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

What came near being a fatal accident occurred at the Fox bakery this morning about 8 o'clock. Several workmen were on the roof engaged in the work of removing the cornice at the south end of the building and had piled several hundred bricks on the roof when one of the joists was noticed to loosen. One of the workmen, Charles F. Harris, of 19 East Williams street, started to remove the bricks and had carried away about a hundred when the roof gave way, precipitating him into the room below. Providentially several boards fell upon him in such a way as to prevent the rest of the bricks from doing him any serious injury, though one of his arm bones was broken in the fall. The fall stunned him and it was several minutes before he could extract himself from th debris. He was able to walk to the office of Dr. J. E. Miller, who set the bone. It may be several weeks before the young man will be able to use his arm.

TO PUBLISH A PAPER.

A new field has been opened to the 1,500 convicts in Sing Sing prison, says a New York news letter. They are to publish a weekly newspaper, and the first number will be distributed among the men on Saturday. The name selected is the Star of Hope. It will consist of four pages and the make-up will be done by the convicts. Warden Sage, the originator of the novel plan, will be the managing editor, or news censor of the new publication. He was busy today reading and revising matter submitted by convicts. Sing Sing prison has an extensive and up to date printing establishment and the "copy" from the inmates which escapes the blue pencil of the warden wil be set up by convict printers in the shop and then run off on the press. The warden has for some time had in contemplation the publication of the newspaper. Speaking of it Thursday, he said:

"It will be occupation at least and it will conduce to mental training All of the inmates of the institution are invited to submit articles. Naturally all cannot be published, but each man will have the benefit resulting from the effort."

The name of the editor or of any of the men furnishing items will not be published. The Star of Hope will go outside of the prison. Its name is acompliment to Mrs. Ballington Booth.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

A REMARKABLE STORY FOUNDED ON FACT—ONE OF THE CHAPTERS THAT HAVE MADE KIPLING'S "CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS" A POPULAR BOOK.

In all of Kipling's many books, famous for their dash and vigor, no passage of equal length is more vivid than the description, in "Captains Courageous," of Harvey Cheyne's rush across the continent, to meet the son whom he had mourned as dead. This is said to have been based on a "record" trip between the same points--San Diego, California, and Boston, Mass.—made by a western railway president in 1895. Mr. Kipling's description shows a singular knowledge of American railway men and methods, as well as of American character. By permission of The Century Co., we print herewith the passage in question, from Chapter IX. of "Captains Courageous."

Whatever his private sorrows may be, a multimillionaire, like any other workingman, should keep abreast of his business. Harvey Cheyne, senior, had gone East late in June to meet a woman broken down, half mad, who dreamed day and night of her son drowning in the gray seas. He had surrounded her with doctors, trained nurses, massage women, and even faith-cure companions, but they were useless. Mrs. Cheyne lay still and moaned, or talked of her boy by the hour together to any one who would listen. Hope she had none, and who could offer it? All she needed was assurance that drowning did not hurt; and her husband watched to guard lest she should make the experiment. Of his own sorow he spoke little—hardly realized the depth of it till he caught himself asking the calendar on his writing-desk, "What's the use of going on?"

There had always lain a pleasant notion at the back of his head that, some day, when he had rounded off everything and the boy had left college, he would take his son to his heart and lead him into his possessions. Then that boy, he argued, as busy fathers do, would instantly become his companion, partner and ally, and there would follow splendid years of great works carried out together—the old head backing the young fire. Now his boy was dead—lost at sea, as it might have been a Swede sailor from one of Cheyne's big tea-ships; the wife was dying, or worse; he himself was trodden down by platoons of women and doctors and maids and attendants; worried almost beyond endurance by the shift and change of her poor restless whims; hopeless, with no heart to meet his many enemies.

He had taken the wife to his raw new palace in San Diego, where she and her people occupied a wing of great price, and Cheyne, in a veranda-room, between a secretary and a typewriter, who was also a telegraphist, toiled along wearily from day to day. There was a war of rates among four western railroads in which he was supposed to be interested; a devastating strike had developed in his lumber camps in Oregon, and the legislature of the state of California, which has no love for its makers, was preparing open war against him.

Ordinarily he would have accepted battle ere it was offered, and have waged a pleasant and unscrupulous campaign. But now he sat limply, his soft black hat pushed forward on to his nose, his big body shrunk inside his loose clothes, staring at his boots or the Chinese junks in the bay, and assenting absently to the secretary's questions as he opened the Saturday mail.

Cheyne was wondering how much it would cost to drop everything and pull out. He carried huge insurances, could buy himself royal annuities, and between one of his places in Colorado and a little society (that would do the wife good), say in Washington and in the South Carolina Islands, a man might forget plans that had come to nothing. On the other hand . . . .

The click of the typewriter stopped; the girl was looking at the secretary, who had turned white.

He passed Cheyne a telegram repeated from San Francisco:

"Picked up by fishing schooner We 're Here having fallen off boat great times on Banks fishing all well waiting Gloucester Mass care Disko Troop for money or orders wire what shall do and how is mama Harvey N. Cheyne."

The father let it fall, laid his head down on the roller-top of the shut desk, and breathed heavily. The secretary ran for Mrs. Cheyne's doctor, who found Cheyne pacing to and fro.

"What—what d' you think of it? Is it possible? Is there any meaning to it? I can't quite make it out," he cried.

"I can," said the doctor. "I lose seven thousand a year—that's all." He thought of the struggling New York practice he had dropped at Cheyne's imperious bidding, and returned the telegram with a sigh.

"You mean you'd tell her? May be a fraud."

"What's the motive?" said the doctor, coolly. "Detection 's too certain. It's the boy sure enough."

Enter a French maid, impudently, as an indispensable one who is kept on only by large wages.

"Mrs. Cheyne she say you must come at once. She think you are seek."

The master of thirty millions bowed his head meekly and followed Suzanne; and a thin, high voice on the upper landing of the great white-wood staircase cried: "What is it? What has happened?"

No doors could keep out the shriek that rang through the echoing house a moment later, when her husband blurted out the news.

"And that's all right," said the doctor, serenely, to the typewriter. "About the only medical statement in novels with any truth to it is that joy don't kill, Miss Kinzey."

"I know it; but we've a heap to do first." Miss Kinzey was from Milwaukee, somewhat direct of speech; and as her fancy leaned towards the secretary, she divined there was work in hand. He was looking earnestly at the vast roller-map of America on the wall.

"Milsom, we're going right across. Private car—straight through—Boston. Fix the connections," shouted Cheyne down the staircase.

"I thought so."

The secretary turned to the typewriter, and their eyes met (out of that was born a story—nothing to do with this story.) She looked inquiringly, doubtful of his resources. He signed to her to move to the Morse as a general brings brigades into action. Then he swept his hand musician-wise through his hair, regarded the ceiling, and set to work, while Miss Kinzey's white fingers called up the Continent of America.

"'K. H. Wade, Los Angeles'—The 'Constance' is at Los Angeles, isn't she, Miss Kinzey?"

"Yep." Miss Kinzey nodded between clicks as the secretary looked at his watch.

"Ready? 'Send "Constance," private car, here, and arrange for special to leave here Sunday in time to connect with New York Limited at Sixteenth Street, Chicago, Tuesday next.'"

Click—click—click' "Couldn't you better that?"

"Not on those grades. That gives 'em sixty hours from here to Chicago. They won't gain anything by taking a special east of that. Ready? 'Also arrange with Lake Shore and Michigan Southern to take "Constance" on New York Central and Hudson River Buffalo to Albany, and B. and A. the same Albany to Boston. Indispensable I should reach Boston Wednesday evening. Be sure nothing prevents. Have also wired Canniff, Toucey and Barnes.'—Sign, Cheyne."

Miss Kinzey nodded, and the secretary went on.

"Now then. Canniff, Toucey, and Barnes, of course. Ready? 'Canniff, Chicago. Please take my private car "Constance" from Santa Fe at Sixteenth Street next Tuesday p. m. on N. Y. Limited through to Buffalo and deliver N. Y. C. for Albany.'—Ever bin to N'York, Miss Kinzey? We'll go some day.—Ready? 'Take car Buffalo to Albany on Limited Tuesday p. m.' That's for Toucey."

"Haven't bin to Noo York, but I know that!" with a toss of the head.

"Beg pardon. Now, Boston and Albany, Barnes, same instructions from Albany through to Boston. Leave three-five p. m. (you needn't wire that); arrive nine-five p. m. Wednesday. That covers everything Wade will do, but it pays to shake up the managers."

"It's great, said Miss Kinzey, with a look of admiration. This was the kind of a man she understood and appreciated.

"'Tisn't bad," said Milsom, modestly. "Now any one but me would have lost thirty hours and spent a week working out the run, instead of handing him over to the Santa Fe straight through to Chicago."

"But see here, about that Noo York Limited. Chauncey Depew himself couldn't hitch his car to her," Miss Kinzey suggested, recovering herself.

"Yes, but this isn't Chauncey. It's Cheyne—lightning. It goes."

"Even so. Guess we'd better wire the boy. You've forgotten that, anyhow."

"I'll ask."

When he returned with the father's message bidding Harvey meet them in Boston at an appointed hour he found Miss Kinzey laughing over the keys. Then Milsom laughed, too, for the frantic clicks from Los Angeles ran: "We want to know why—why—why? General uneasiness developed and spreading."

Ten minutes later Chicago appealed to Miss Kinzey in these words: "If crime of century is maturing please warn friends in time. We are all getting to cover here."

This was capped by a message from Topeka (and wherein Topeka was concerned even Milsom could not guess): "Don't shoot, Colonel. We'll come down."

Cheyne smiled grimly at the consternation of his enemies when the telegrams were laid before him. "They think we're on the war-path. Tell 'em we don't feel like fighting just now, Milsom. Tell 'em what we're going for. I guess you and Miss Kinzey had better come along, though it isn't likely I shall do any business on the road. Tell 'em the truth—for once."

So the truth was told. Miss Kinzey clicked in the sentiment while the secretary added the memorable quotation, "Let us have peace," and in board rooms two thousand miles away the representatives of sixty-three millions dollars' worth of variously manipulated railroad interests breathed more freely. Cheyne was flying to meet the only son, so miraculously restored to him. The bear was seeking his cub, not the bulls. Hard men who had their knives drawn to fight for their financial lives put away the weapons and wished him God-speed, while half a dozen panic-smitten tin-pot roads perked up their heads and spoke of the wonderful things they would have done had not Cheyne buried the hatchet.

It was a busy week-end among the wires; for, now that their anxiety was removed, men and cities hastened to accommodate. Los Angeles called to San Diego and Barstow that the Southern California engineers might know and be ready in their lonely round houses; Barstow passed the word to the Atlantic and Pacific; and Albuquerque flung it the whole length of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe management, even into Chicago. An engine, combination car with crew, and the great and gilded "Constance" private car were to be expedited over those two thousand three hundred and fifty miles. The train would take precedence of one hundred and seventy-seven others meeting and passing; despatchers and crews of every one of those said trains must be notified. Sixteen locomotives, sixteen engineers and sixteen firemen would be needed—each and every one the best available. Two and one-half minutes would be allowed for changing engines. "Warn the men, and arrange tanks and chutes accordingly; for Harvey Cheyne is in a hurry, a hurry—a hurry," sang the wires. "Forty miles an hour will be expected, and division superintendents will accompany this special over their respective divisions. From San Diego to Sixteenth Street, Chicago, let the magic carpet be laid down. Hurry! oh, hurry!"

"It will be hot," said Cheyne, as they rolled out of San Diego in the dawn of Sunday. "We're going to hurry, mama, just as fast as ever we can; but I really don't think there's any good of your putting on your bonnet and gloves yet. You'd much better lie down and take your medicine. I'd play you a game of dominoes, but it's Sunday."

"I'll be good. Oh, I will be good. Only—taking off my bonnet makes me feel as if we'd never got there."

"Try to sleep a little, mama, and we'll be in Chicago before you know."

"But it's Boston, father. Tell them to hurry."

The six-foot drivers were hammering their way to San Bernardino and the Mohave wastes, but this was no grade for speed. That would come later. The heat of the desert followed the heat of the hills as they turned east to the Needles and the Colorado River. The car cracked in the utter drouth and glare, and they put crushed ice to Mrs. Cheyne's neck, and toiled up the long, long grades, past Ash Fork, towards Flagstaff, where the forests and quarries are, under the dry, remote skies. The needle of the speed-indicator flicked and wagged to and fro; the cinders rattled on the roof, and a whirl of dust sucked after the whirling wheels. The crew of the combination sat on their bunks, panting in their shirt-sleeves, and Cheyne found himself among them shouting old, old stories of the railroad that every trainman knows, above the roar of the car. He told them about his son, and how the sea had given up its dead, and they nodded and spat and rejoiced with him; asked after "her, back there," and whether she could stand it if the engineer "let her out a piece," and Cheyne thought she could. Accordingly, the great fire-horse was "let out" from Flagstaff to Winslow, till a division superintendent protested.

But Mrs. Cheyne, in the boudoir state room, where the French maid, sallow-white with fear, clung to the silver door-handle, only moaned a little and begged her husband to bid them "hurry." And so they dropped the dry sands and moon-struck rocks of Arizona behind them, and grilled on till the crash of the couplings and the wheeze of the brake-hose told them they were at Coolidge by the Continental Divide.

Three bold and experienced men—cool, confident, and dry when they began; white, quivering, and wet when they finished their trick at those terrible wheels—swung her over the great lift from Aubuquerque to Glorietta and beyond Springer, up and up to the Baton Tunnel on the state line, whence they dropped rocking into La Junta, had sight of the Arkansaw, and tore down the long slope to Dodge City, where Cheyne took comfort once again from setting his watch an hour ahead.

There was very little talk in the car. The secretary and typewriter sat together on the stamped Spanish-leather cushions by the plate-glass observation-window at the rear end, watching the surge and ripple of the ties crowded back behind them, and, it is believed, making notes of the scenery. Cheyne moved nervously between his own extravagant gorgeousness and the naked necessity of the combination, an unlit cigar in his teeth, till the pitying crews forgot that he was their tribal enemy, and did their best to entertain him.

At night the bunched electrics lit up that distressful palace of all the luxuries, and they fared sumptuously, swinging on through the emptiness of abject desolation. Now they heard the swish of a water-tank, and the guttural voice of a Chinaman, the clink-clink of hammers that tested the Krupp steel wheels, and the oath of a tramp chased off the rear platform; now the solid crash of coal shot into the tender; and now a beating back of noises as they flew past a waiting train. Now they looked out into great abysses, a trestle purring beneath their tread, or up to rocks that barred out half the stars. Now scaur and ravine changed and rolled back to jagged mountains on the horizon's edge, and now broke into hills lower and lower, till at last came the true plains.

At Dodge City an unknown hand threw in a copy of a Kansas paper containing some sort of an interview with Harvey, who had evidently fallen in with an enterprising reporter, telegraphed on from Boston. The joyful journalese revealed that it was beyond question their boy, and it soothed Mrs. Cheyne for a while. Her one word "hurry" was conveyed by the crews to the engineers at Nickerson, Topeka and Marceline, where the grades are easy, and they brushed the Continent behind them. Towns and villages were close together now, and a man could feel here that he moved among people.

"I can't see the dial, and my eyes ache so. What are we doing?"

"The very best we can, mama. There's no sense in getting in before the Limited. We'd only have to wait."

"I don't care. I want to feel we're moving. Sit down and tell me the miles."

Cheyne sat down and read the dial for her (there were some miles which stand for records to this day), but the seventy-foot car never changed its long steamer-like roll, moving through the heat with the hum of a giant bee. Yet the speed was not enough for Mrs. Cheyne; and the heat, the remorseless August heat, was making her giddy; the clock-hands would not move, and when, oh, when would they be in Chicago?

It is not true that, as they changed engines at Fort Madison, Cheyne passed over to the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers an endowment sufficient to enable them to fight him and his fellows on equal terms for evermore. He paid his obligations to engineers and firemen as he believed they deserved, and only his bank knows what he gave the crews who had sympathized with him. It is on record that the last crew took entire charge of switching operations at Sixteenth street, because "she" was in a doze at last, and Heaven was to help any one who bumped her.

Now the highly paid specialist who conveys the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Limited from Chicago to Elkhart is something of an autocrat, and he does not approve of being told how to back up to a car. None the less he handled the "Constance" as if she might have been a load of dynamite, and when the crew rebuked him, they did it in whispers and dumb show.

"Pshaw!" said the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe men, discussing life later, "we weren't runnin' for a record. Harvey Chyne's wife, she were sick back, an' we didn't want to jounce her. 'Come to think of it, our runnin' time from San Diego to Chicago was 57.54. You can tell that to them Eastern way-trains. When we're tryin' for a record, we'll let you know."

To the Western man (though this would not please either city) Chicago and Boston are cheek by jowl, and some railroads encourage the delusion. The Limited whirled the "Constance" into Buffalo and the arms of the New York Central and Hudson River (illustrious magnates with white whiskers and gold charms on their watch-chains boarded her here to talk a little business to Cheyne), who slid gracefully into Albany, where the Boston and Albany completed the run from tide-water to tide-water—total time, eighty-seven hours and thirty-five minutes, or three days, fifteen hours and one-half. Harvey was waiting for them.

Miss Gertie Wilson, of this city, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Clara Goble, of Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Curtis have returned to their hom in Warsaw.

Every Tooth that Aches

Is more sinned against than sinning. Yes it is. And, in the very fitness of things perhaps that's why it aches. It makes the punishment fit the crime of tooth neglect. Just take counsel from the fact that great toothaches from little cavities grow—and from the fact that we fill tooth cavities, preventing toothache; can often save aching teeth in the same way for years of future usefulness—and can always end the earthly aches of teeth that can't be saved by extracting them by easy modern methods without pain

Facts Plainly Stated

Convince Thinking People.

When a man jumps up and down and yells at you until he is black in the face, in an effort to convince you of something, you are not convinced, simply because you know that if his statements have truth back of them, all the spectacular business is uncalled for. That is the reason Sam, Pete & Max always confine their advertising to the simple statement of facts as they exist. People who want clothing properly made, in best styles and at prices which leave no question of doubt in their minds as to the values they are getting, are coming to Sam, Pete & Max's in larger numbers every day. We do not insult your intelligence by advertising goods at half their worth, but better goods, for the money, than we offer have not yet been produced. SHILOH CHAPTER

Entertains the Eastern Star Delegates.

Received Informally and Exemplified the Degree—Veterans' Association Formed.

A large number of officers and delegates to the Eastern Star grand chapter, who remained in the city last evening, attended the regular meeting of Shiloh chapter, No. 141, and the occasion was a most happy termination to the gatherings of the week. The room was densely crowded, and there must have been at least 250 persons present. After the transaction of the regular business, the degree staff of Shiloh chapter exemplified the beautiful degree work, and at its close were simply showered with compliments upon their excellent rendition of the degree. Recitations by Miss Doty and Miss Stemen, several musical numbers, and brief addresses by the past officers present formed a most enjoyable part of the gathering, and light refreshments were served. The social session was entirely informal, and members of the order commingled pleasantly together in the closing event of the week's gathering.

VETERANS' ASSOCIATION.

Steps were taken yesterday to organize a veterans' association among the older members of the order and about twenty ladies and gentlemen joined it. Only those who have been members of the order for at least twenty-five years are eligible to membership in the Veterans' association and officers were elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Wm. H. Smythe, Indianapolis.

Vice President—Mrs. Laura A. Zimmerman, Fort Wayne.

Secretary—Mrs. Nettie Ransford, Indianapolis.

Treasurer—W. H. Smythe, Indianapolis.

The meetings of the association will be held annually at the same time with those of the grand chapter.

CYCLONE DESTROYS TWO MISSOURI TOWNS

Kirksville and Newtown Almost Wiped Out by a Terribly Destructive Wind and Electrical Storm.

HUNDRED PERSONS LOST THEIR LIVES

Hundreds are Among the Injured--The Storm Struck the Town in the Early Evening While the People Were at Supper.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., April 28.—Kirksville today is a scene of desolation and suffering as the result of last evening's tornado. Many of the dead and dying remained in the ruins of their homes during the night; others who had been found and taken to places of shelter died before morning.

A small army of doctors from the Osteopathy college, students and citizens spent the dark hours in a ceaseless hunt for the unfortunates; the dead were carried away to a selected spot to be cared for when the needs of the injured could be satisfied.

All night rescuers darted here and there among the debris, answering some cry for help—or directed by the sight of some struggling form fighting to escape imprisonment. Here and there fires that had started soon after the tornado passed, and which were allowed to burn, sent up a bright glow and lent aid to the rescuers. It is possible that these same fires incinerated some of the victims who could not be reached, and only days of search can reveal the true state of affairs. Morning broke bright and beautiful over the area of destruction.

The rambling search of the ruins pursued during the night gave way to systematic work.

Newtown, in Sullivan county, shared the fate of Kirksville at the hands of the tornado. Days must pass before a complete list of casualties can be secured and before the extent of the damage to her property can be known. Kirksville is the county seat of Adair county and has a population estimated at 5,000. The state normal school of the first district and business colleges are located there. The town is best known through the teachings of the American school of osteopathy. Persons afflicted with many diseases visit Kirksville to be treated, and it was in the students, and patients, quarters that the tornado wrought havoc.

The town is located in an agricultural region and is reached by the Wabash and Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railroads.

Newtown is a small town of 600 inhabitants in Sullivan county, forty miles north of Kirksville.

The tornado destroyed telephone and telegraph wires of Kirksville and not till 7:30 this morning was communication with the outside world resumed, and then only in an unsatisfactory sort of way.

WERE AT SUPPER.

The tornado which wrought such destruction, struck this town at 6:20 last evening, when most people were at supper. The entire east side of the city was wiped clean.

Over 200 buildings, homes and stores were leveled.

A heavy rain followed the cyclone and the debris of wrecked buildings took fire in several places, lighting the way for the rescuers.

Mayor Noonan, who has been active in rescue work, estimates that the death list may reach 100.

The cyclone approached Kirksville from the south, somewhat west, and missed the heart of the city by two or three blocks.

Reports from the country districts state that many farmers have suffered severely and that several lives have been lost outside of Kirksville.

Henry Lowe and three children, living three miles north of the town were crushed to death beneath their demolished home.

TERRIBLE HAVOC.

Town of Newtown Destroyed and Twenty Persons Killed.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., April 29.—Reports from Newtown, Sullivan county, are that twenty persons were killed in last night's tornado and between thirty and forty injured.

Many of the injured will die.

THE DEAD.

The known dead:
S. Bedford, wife and five children.
L. Evans and two daughters.
William Hay, wife and seven children.
Unknown man.
The injured are:
The five Brooks children, Ella Evans, A. J. Jones, wife and three children · May Greggory and two daughters, Mrs. George and son, Mrs. Pearson and three children, Mrs. Flagg, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Guise. Dora Stafford and three children, M. C. McCristine and wife, Moses Gunnison and wife.

HALF OF TOWN DESTROYED.

The entire eastern half of the town was destroyed. The path of the storm was about 500 to 600 feet wide and hardly a dwelling in its course escaped. Frame houses were lifted from their foundations and crushed like egg shells. The more substantial buildings were badly wrecked and half a hundred persons at least are homeless.

The storm blew down the telegraph wires in and about the city and washed away the bridge over Medicine Creek, a small stream just south of the town.

A terrific electrical storm followed the tornado, and the excitement was intense. Women and children ran about the streets shrieking for their parents and friends, and men searched the ruins in the drenching rain, hoping to locate the bodies of victims. Houses of survivors were thrown open to those who were rendered homeless and every possible thing done to care for the injured.

HOLDING A REUNION.

Survivors of the Sultana Disaster Assemble in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., April 28.—Nearly one hundred survivors of the Sultana disaster gathered here in annual convention today, the occasion being the 35th anniversary of the event.

The session today was largely devoted to addresses and reports of officers.

Each year shows a marked decrease in the membership from death and the past year has been no exception in this respect.

The Sultana was a Mississippi river boat. On April 27, 1864, she was working her way up the river when a terrible explosion occurred. In the ensuing half hour, hundreds of lives were lost. The disaster was considered one of the most appalling of the civil war. The Sultana was loaded down with soldiers.

President Goes Aboard the Fighting Cruiser.

He Makes a Speech--Words of High Praise for Dewey's Men--Captain Coghlan Receives Him.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.—President McKinley and party paid a visit to the United States cruiser Raleigh, the only one of Admiral Dewey's fighting ships that has returned from Manila.

The president was received with the national salute from the Raleigh's guns.

Accompanied by Captain Coghlan, the president proceeded to the cabin of the cruiser, where he held an informal reception. He was then escorted to the lower deck, on which the sailors were lined up for inspection.

Captain Coghlan introduced the men of the ship as follows:

"Mr. President, these are the men of the Raleigh. Part of them are from the flagship Olympia. They all served throughout the whole campaign."

After passing before them with bared head, Mr. McKinley addressed the Manila heroes as follows:

"Captain Coghlan and men of the Raleigh: It gives me very great pleasure to bid you welcome home, and to congratulate you and each one of you on the heroic part you played in the great battle on the 1st of May at Manila, which was a most glorious triumph of American arms, and made a new and most glorious page in American history.

"I assure you that when I give you welcome, I am only speaking the heart welcome of seventy-five millions American citizens who honor you all for your splendid service to our country.

"This feeling not only extends to your great admiral, whom we all love and honor, but to the humblest member of the crew who was in that great fleet at Manila bay.

He give you all a warm and generous welcome and my thanks."

Secretary of the Navy Long then addressed the sailors.

At the conclusion of Secretary Long's speech the sailors gave three cheers for the president of the United States, and three for the secretary of the navy.

This was followed by the ship's yell:

"Who are we, can't you see.
We are members of the new navee.
Rah, Rah, Rah, Raleigh."

This amused the president very much. The president then shook hands with the various officers of the cruiser and spoke a pleasant word to each.

MRS. GEORGE IS A FREE WOMAN

Jury Renders Verdict of Acquittal.

THE CROWD CHEERS

The Jury Was Out Twenty-four Hours.

Mrs. George Receives Congratulations of Her Friends--Expected Acquittal.

CANTON, April 28.—The jury in the George case returned a verdict of acquittal at 10:15 a. m.

A mighty cheer went up from the crowd in the court room when the verdict was announced.

The cheer was almost instantly taken up by the people who packed the streets. Mrs. George's face lit up with a smile as the words were spoken that made her a free woman.

She was immediately surrounded by a great throng who desired to congratulate her.

Mrs. George remained in the court for some time after the verdict was announced, acknowledging congratulations of her friends.

She then went to the Hotel Conrad, a block from the court house, in company with Mr. and Mrs. McElpony, her cousins, who have been with her doing the trial, and at 12:15 lunched with them at the hotel.

The jury was out twenty-four hours and forty-five minutes, and during that time twenty-two ballots were cast. The interval between these ballots was spent in reviewing the case and discussing its various phases.

After the jury reported, it was said that the preliminary ballot was taken at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, or half an hour after they had been closeted in the jury room. This ballot showed four favoring a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, and eight jurymen for a verdict of not guilty, or acquittal. The second ballot was taken at 2 p. m. and resulted the same.

This was also the result of the third ballot taken forty-five minutes later at 3:15 o'clock. The fourth ballot was taken and the result is said to have been guilty in the first degree two, seven not guilty, one for second degree and two for manslaughter. At 1 p. m. yesterday the fifth ballot was taken with the result of eight not guilty, the result of all the succeeding ballots up to the fourteenth ballot at 2 o'clock Friday morning.

The fifteenth ballot was taken at 4:55 o'clock Friday morning, resulting in nine for not guilty and three for manslaughter. The sixteenth ballot was not taken until 6:15 o'clock this morning when the ballot stood eight for not guilty, three for manslaughter and one for assault and battery.

At 10 a. m. today the twentieth ballot was taken, showing eleven for not guilty and one for first degree murder. The same result was obtained in the twenty-first ballot. The twenty-second and last ballot was taken at 10:22 o'clock with a unanimous vote for not guilty.

A number of her friends and acquaintances called on Mrs. George in the parlor of the Conrad hotel. Juryman Miller was one of the callers and to him Mrs. George expressed her warmest thanks, saying she had known him as her staunch friend from the first.

A number of congratulatory telegrams were delivered to her.

She said she would go to her old home in Hanoverton tomorrow and visit her mother for a few days. As to the future she said she had no definite plans as yet.

Mrs. George, continuing, said to an Associated Press representative:

"The verdict was what I had expected from the start. I am very grateful to the court and to the officials for the consideration they have shown me. I am also very thankful to the gentlemen who represented the press.

I cannot find words to express my feelings towards my attorneys. Their work was beyond all words. They left nothing undone in my behalf and I shall remember them and appreciate them, as long as I live."

She said her two boys will accompany her to visit her mother.

SCHLEY AND WHEELER.

Two Heroes of Santiago Are the Guests of Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 28.—Admiral Schley and Gen. Wheeler, who are to speak at the Grant banquet of the Americus club tonight, arrived on a special Baltimore and Ohio train from Washington at 6:35 o'clock this morning and despite the early hour the distinguished guests were greeted at the station by a crowd of several hundred. After breakfast at the Hotel Schenly, the party, which has been augmented by the arrival of Col. A. K. McClure, of Philadelphia, and Gen. W. J. Hullings, of Oil City, visited the armor plate plant at Homestead and the Firth-Stirling Projectile company at Demmplar, Pa.

In the afternoon a public reception was held at the Americus clubhouse.

GERMANS PROTEST.

St. Louis Publishers Declare Against Imperialism and Militarism.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 28.—Representatives of twenty German newspapers in Missouri met in the office of Dr. Emil Praetorius, editor of the Westliche Post, yesterday afternoon and after a lengthy discussion of the subjects, denounced the so-called attempts which have been made to create an unfriendly feeling between the United States and Germany. A resolution was also adopted as follows:

"True to the constitution and traditions of the republic we take a firm stand against militarism and imperialism, knowing that the American citizens stand almost unanimously against this new course, which would endanger the welfare and the future of the republic."

The resolutions are quite lengthy. In them were incorporated the famous words of Decatur: "My county, may she be always in the right, but, right or wrong, my country." Editor Schwartz of the Amerika, St Louis, and two or three others objected to inserting the phrase because if imperialism should carry in this country the adoption of the resolutions in this form would commit those present at the conference. His objection resulted in the words being expunged from the resolutions which were signed by all who attended.

SAY QUAY WILL BE SEATED.

Reported That He Has Sixty Votes Pledged in His Behalf.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 28.—Quay leaders here say that the plum tree statesman has just completed a poll of the senate and that he has sixty-seven votes pledged to seat him. A preliminary poll was made many weeks ago when Quay found that he could not be re-elected. He then determined to hold his legislators togother and continue the deadlock to the end of the session. The governor was pledged to appoint him if acquitted of the conspiracy charge. By the poll, which is claimed to be correct, Quay will have twenty-three votes more than enough to get in.

THE FILIPINOS HAVE HAD ENOUGH FIGHTING

General Luna's Staff Officers Enter American Lines to Sue for Peace.

WANT TO MAKE TERMS OF SURRENDER

General Otis Refuses to Recognize the Insurgent Government and the Rebels Are Disappointed--The End is Near.

MANILA, April 28.—4:25 a. m.—The Filipinos will seek peace. Col. Manuel Arguelesos and Lieut. Jose Bernal, chief of General Lunas' staff, entered General MacArthurs' line bearing a flag of truce. They are on route for Manila by train to confer with General Otis regarding terms of surrender.

MISSION IS FRUITLESS.

Filipino Envoys Get no Terms From the American Commander.

MANILA, April 28.—5:30 P. M.—The Filipino advances for peace have been fruitless. Colonel Manuel Arguelese and Lieut. Jose Bernal, who came into General MacArthur's lines under a flag of truce, told General Otis that they were representatives of General Luna, who had been requested by Aguinaldo to ask General Otis for a cessation of hostilities in order to allow time for the summoning of the Filipino congress, which body would decide whether the people wanted peace.

General Otis replied that he did not recognize the existence of a Filipino government. There will be another conference tomorrow.

The Filipino officers walked down the railroad track to the Kansas regiments outposts at 9 o'clock this morning. The Kansas captain in command there escorted them to General Wheaton's headquarters, where they were provided with horses and sent to the headquarters of General MacArthur. The latter invited the Filipinos to sit down at lunch with him, and conversed with them for some time.

He refused, however, to speak authoritively on the subject of their errand, referring all inquiries to General Otis.

The Filipinos were then escorted by Major Mallony, of General MacArthur's staff, to Manila, reaching this place at 3 o'clock p. m.

General Otis' aide, Lieutenant Sladen, was awaiting their arrival at the depot with a carriage, in which they were driven to the palace entrance.

The Filipino officers attracted much attention. They were dressed in uniforms of checked blue and white cloth, and were straw hats. They carried no side arms. They were escorted directly to the office of General Otis.

Jacob G. Schurman, president of the Philippine commission, and Hon Charles Denby, a member of the commission, soon joined the party there.

The news of the arrival of Filipino officers under a flag of truce spread through the city rapidly, and many officers gravitated to the corridors of the palace, while a crowd of natives gathered in the square opposite the palace.

At 5 o'clock the two Filipino officers, escorted by Lieutenant Sladen and Major Mallony, left the palace. They did not look at all elated as a result of their talk with General Otis and the members of the Philippine commission.

COULDN'T STAND IT.

Filipinos Unable to Face the Fire of the Americans.

MANILA, April 28.—8:20 a. m.—At Calumpit for the first time a large body of Filipinos attempted to face the Americans in open ground. The Filipinos in the trenches were dispersed after making a ridiculously feeble resistance; but General Lunas' brigade came upon the field from Macabies on the double quick, the two regiments preserving a perfect formation. The Americans from the south bank of the river, which is higher than the north bank, could see General Luna, mounted on a black horse, galloping frantically along the lines and apparently exhorting his followers to make a stand. He finally succeeded in getting them spread in an extended line of battle which would have done credit to a civilized army.

But when the American bullets showered thickly among them, stirring clouds of dust from the sandy soil, the Filipinos again showed that no amount of drilling could fortify them sufficiently to make them face the American rifles and their train pulled up the track, with its load of dead and wounded, in plain sight of the Americans, who were entering the town so closely that the rebels barely slipped out of their victor's hands.

The Montana regiments made a rush to capture the train, running up the track, yelling shrilly and dropping their guns in the pursuit: but the engine backed off hastily, leaving the bodies of six warriors to their enemies.

Twenty Filipinos who came to meet the conquerors, bearing a white flag, declared heartily that they were sick of fighting, adding that food was very short in their camps. They ate the army rations given to them with an eagerness that testified to the truth of the latter statement. One who had been severely wounded dragged himself after his comrades, showing remarkable nerve.

Fifty Americans were overcome by the heat, and Col. Funston dropped utterly exhausted after the battle. The men of the Kansas regiment cheered him crazily when he went among them. Last night the flames of burning villages and scattered huts gave the horizon a glow as of sunset and the crackling of the bamboos as they caught fire sounded like musketry in a battle.

If the American troops were not fighting the heat as well as the rebels, they might pursue the natives until they compelled them to scatter into the mountains; but the soldiers are so wilted that they must rest while the insurgents have time to reorganize, dig new trenches and fortify San Fernando, where it is expected they will attempt another battle.

The matter of the transportation of supplies also hampers General MacArthur's movements; since, with the railroad cut at the bridge over the Bagbag, it is difficult to supply so large an army if such a rough country.

WOULD RATHER NOT.

Americans Have a Violent Dislike to Bushwhacking.

MANILA, April 28.—11:45 a. m.—Yesterday furnished added proof that the United States troops have a fear of bushwhacking that is above their fear of battles. The Washington regiment, which is holding Taguig with three companies of the Twelfth regulars, engaged a large force of insurgents in a fight in the jungle. The Americans lost two killed and ten wounded.

The Filipinos have been massing at the mouth of the Pasig river, and it is estimated that there are 3,000 of them now there. They have mounted two guns—one a three-inch Krupp—and have thrown a number of shells into American lines.

The gunboat Napidan which is guarding the entrance to the river shelled a launch which was carrying supplies.

Yesterday a large force of rebels approached the town, seemingly bent upon luring the Americans from Calumpit. Three companies of the Washington troops rallied from the town and attacked the natives and found that they had their hands full. Two other companies of the Washington and three they contain Alcohol. Sick kidneys should not be fed on Alcohol—it aggravates the disease. Utah Kidney Beans are solid; they are concentrated; and they act directly on the kidneys.

Rev. Roland Hall, an eminent clergyman of the Baptist Church, residing at Williamsport, Tennessee, endorses Utah Kidney Beans for the great relief his wife received from using them. Rev. Mr. Hall is known from one end of the State of Tennessee to the other, having been in the ministry for over half a century. This good man would not endorse a medicine or anything else unless he knew beyond the shadow of a doubt that it was worthy. Therefore, such endorsements give Utah Kidney Beans a standing that no other kidney remedy in the country has. Mrs. Hall received great benefit from the use of Utah Kidney Beans; they gave her new strength—and new life. They will lift all sufferers from kidney troubles out of sick beds and restore them to vigorous health. Strength begins to return after the first few doses.

MUNICIPAL AFFIARS.

The Board of Works Decides to Pave East Lewis.

That Thoroughfare Will be Included in the Next Batch of Resolutions—Notes.

The board of works at its meeting last evening decided to include Lewis street in the next batch of streets which are to be paved. The petition first submitted for the paving of that street was the largest ever submitted for a street improvement and it was for asphalt, but there was a change in sentiment and a majority asked for brick inasmuch as brick has been used between the tracks. It is believed work can be commenced on the street not later than June 1.

Resolutions were necessary for the work, owing to the varying width of the street. It is uniform in width from Lafayette to Hanna, and at the latter point it narrows down, to widen out again at Francis. At Winter street there is another jog and the street is then uniform as far as Walton avenue.

Mayor Schoer asked the board to take some action towards purchasing the single lot which lies almost in the center of North Side park. The lot belongs to a Mr. Zollinger, who lives in Topeka, Kas., and the mayor stated that the owner was willing to sell it. The board will open negotiations with Mr. Zollinger.

Action on the matter of grading Fulton street was delayed until the street, which is now only sixteen feet wide from curb to curb, can be widened.

The petition of C. W. Branstrator and others, for the construction of sidewalks on the south side of Home avenue, from Fairfield to South Wayne avenue, was favorably acted on, and the board ordered plans for a sewer.

Dr. G. B. McGeogan asked that a sewer be constructed in the fall in P. A. Randall's sub division, and the board promised to look into the avisability of having the work done.

THROUGH BRITAIN.

Rev. Leeper Describes His Trip Through the Islands.

The illustrated lecture given by Rev. Leeper at the Westminster church last evening, discribing his trip through the lands of the shamrock, rose and thistle, was enjoyed by a large and interested audience. The views used in the stereopticon were nearly all taken by Rev. Leeper during his trip. These pictures are of places of great historical interest both ancient and modern, and bring one face to face with those scenes which have been immortalized by writers as being associated with the names and lives of great men and women. Many rural scenes of great beauty were also pictured on the canvas.

Owing to lack of time it was impossible to show the views of Scotland and Ireland and it was announced that the lecture would be continued a week from next Sunday. Mr. Leeper will then deliver a lecture on "Impressions of Religious Life Across the Sea" and views of Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's Cathedral will be shown in the course of the lecture. A lady in the audience fainted from the effects of the heat and had to be assisted out of the church.

THE BUILDING TRADES.

A Well Attended Meeting Addressed by Mr. Kennedy.

The meeting held last evening at the city hall in the interest of the men engaged in the building trades was very well attended and the address made by D. F. Kennedy, state organizer for the American Federation of Labor, was listened to with great interest.

Mr. Kennedy showed in a clear way the advantages of organization and pointed out the fact that very often the most skilled labor is paid for at a very low rate for the reason that there is no organization. An example of this is the case of the watch makers, the highest class of skilled labor, who receive only a day laborer's pay. He also gave other illustrations where skilled labor cannot command the highest rates because no organization exists. Mr. Kennedy said that there were trades requiring a great deal less skill and intelligence who were receiving a high rate of wages because of their union. In many cities, among which is Fort Wayne, the hod carriers receive more than skilled carpenters for the reason that they have an organization.

Another cause of low wages in the building trades was in the fact that many journeymen want to become contractors and when there are a number of builders in a town building prices are run down to a low level on account of the competition. If the contractors and the journeymen would work together the result would be a greater demand for labor which would benefit every class of workmen.

As a result of Mr. Kennedy's work it is expected that there will be a general revival of the labor movement in this city.

Rev. T. J. Johnson, of Simpson M. E. church, gave a short address after Mr. Kennedy had concluded.

DISPATCh FROM OTIS.

Announces the Probability that the Fighting Is Over.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—General Otis telegraphs the war department this morning that the commanding general of the insurgents has received from the insurgent government directions to suspend hostilities pending negotiations for the termination of the war and that insurgent staff officers are now on the way to Manila for that purpose.

OTIS' DISPATCH.

The the text of General Otis' dispatch follows:

"MANILA, April 28.—Adjutant General, Washington: After taking Calumpit MacArthur's division crossed the Rio Grande river in the face of great obstacles, driving the concentrated forces of the enemy back on the railroad two miles. MacArthur reports the passage of the river a remarkable military achivement, the success of which was due to daring skill and determination of Colonel Funston, under discriminating control of General Wheaton. Casualities slight, number not yet ascertained. This morning chief of staff from commanding general of insurgent forces entered our lines to express admiration of the wonderful feat of the American army in forcing passage of the river, which was thought impossible. Staff officer reports that insurgents' commanding general has received from insurgent government directions to suspend hostilities pending negotiations for the termination of the war. Staff officer with party is now en route to Manila and will arrive soon.

"Lawton's forces well in hand in vicinity of Angat, east of Calumpit, where he is waiting supplies to be sent tomorrow. Yesterday morning force of 1,500 insurgents attacked troops at Taguig; driven back by Washington regiment.

"Our loss two killed, twelve wounded. OTIS."

The dispatch from General Otis came just at the beginning of the official day here. There was a feeling of profound relief expressed at once on all sides, for during the last three days the officials have been much depressed by the reports that came from the front.

The Associated Press bulletin, dated at the close of today from Manila, stating that the negotiations for peace had not been successful that day, but that another conference would occur tomorrow, did not have any substantial effect in repressing the expression of satisfaction. It was remembered by the officials that General Toral, at Santiago, did not surrender at the first instance, and that several days were occupied in the negotiations which finally resulted in the capitulation. In some respects the situation at Calumpit bears a striking resemblance to that existing at Santiago just prior to the break down of the Spanish resistance.

The Spaniards were hungry and insufficiently supplied, just as are the Filipinos.

They sought first to escape the humiliation of a surrender; to march out with the honors of war; to carry off their arms, but they were obliged to abandon all these points, just as the Filipinos will be forced to do in a short time, according to the expectations of the officials here.

Secretary Alger was naturally highly gratified at the news. He approved thoroughly General Otis reply to the Filipino delegation. But he made it clear that there was no disposition on his part to interfere with Otis and the Philippine commission in making terms with the Filipinos to any greater degree than had been done in the conduct of the campaign. The secretary said that the Philippine commission had full power to arrange terms of surrender.

It is stated on the highest authority that under its instructions, the Philippine commission will deal most leniently with the insurgents when once convinced of their intention to cease fighting. The commission will not be technical nor captious as to the terms. It will be made plain to the revolting Filipinos that no grudges are to be charged up against them; that they are not to be punished in the Spanish fashion by wholesale executions of the leading spirits among them, and finally that they are not to lose their property. It is believed here that a powerful help to General Otis in bringing the campaign to a successful issue was the spreading among the rebels of a belief in the promises of the American government.

There is a disposition on the part of some of the officials here who will have much to say with the arrangement of final terms of peace to apprehend an undue insistence on the part of the American commander at Manila upon an immediate and unconditional surrender. It is believed that the Filipino general, simply wishing to avoid direct responsibility for the surrender which is inevitable, is asking for time in order that their congress may assume that responsibility.

It is said that the Philippine congress can be speedily got together for this purpose and thus save the pride of Aguinaldo.

The bravery of the American troops is highly commended. It was stated at the war department that Col. Funston would secure a brigadier general's commission as a reward for his services in the various engagements culminating in his daring and heroic feats yesterday. It was also stated that both Colonel Funston and the two men who crossed the river under fire of the enemy would secure medals of honor. High praise is given all the volunteers as it appears that they were every place where the fighting was going on.

SENATOR QUAY appears to have more facility in manipulating the senate of the United States than his own legislature.

AFTER carefully weighing the difference between Spanish soldiers and American soldiers Aguinaldo has found out something of the toughness of the proposition he has undertaken to solve.

IF Great Britain has finally resolved on administrating a thrashing to the Boers of the Transvaal, she can count on the necessity of a dozen of Tommy Atkins for every man Oom Paul marshals for defense of the republic. It is an arithmetical proposition that three times has been demonstrated.

IT is a rule and matter of consolation, usually, with fishermen that after a long and severe winter the fishing season following it will be good. This old rule has been established by the experience of old anglers and a good season is expected this year. The only drawback to the situation is the new law which allows no one to fish while the fishing is fresh.

THE state of Kansas may have spent some years "raising hades," as some of the sunflower newspapers expressed it, and may have had an overproduction, as it was also observed, but at the same time Kansas was raising as glorious a crop of heroes as ever breathed the smoke of battle. Nothing could exceed the intrepidity and dash of Col. Fred Funston and his brave boys of the Twentieth Kansas regiment in the fighting around Manila "Scrappy Fred" has won and should have the stars of a general.

A SUIT for damages has been instituted by one Washington dry goods firm against another, the complaint being that the defendant firm "maliciously, unlawfully and unjustly" conspired to persuade one of plaintiff's employes to leave his employ and enter that of the defendant, by reason of which the plaintiff was compelled to increase the clerk's salary in order to retain his services. The purpose of the suit is to determine whether an employer has the legal right to induce employes of other concerns to leave the service of the latter by offers of increased salaries.

THAT base ball is more civilizing and less brutal than bull-fighting has generally been taken for granted, but in the case of Havana and the Cubans the question is in doubt. A base ball game was played in the island metropolis the other day, of which the Times, of Cuba, referring to a crisis caused by a close decision by the umpire in the eighth inning, says: "The police took a hand in the affair, revolvers were drawn, and murder would have been done had not a detachment of the Seventh cavalry appeared on the scene with loaded guns to quell the disturbance." However, base ball crowds in the United States have now and then done a few things in the way of rioting themselves, though it is not of record that the military was ever called out.

DANIEL M. BURNS, who will be appointed United States senator by Governor Gage, of California, to fill a vacancy that occurred while the legislature of that state was in session, has rather an unsavory record, but he is a great political power in the state and was chiefly instrumental in nominating Governor Gage and contributed liberally to his election. Mr. Burns is a native of Tennessee, and went with his parents to California in 1849, when he settled in Yolo county. He studied law, and early entered politics, serving two terms as county clerk of Yolo county. He was accused of embezzling funds of the county, but the charge was not pressed, as his friends made up the shortage. Again, when he was secretary of state, the charge of embezzling funds was made, but Burns pleaded that his deputy, Reynolds, took the money, and the jury acquitted Burns. When Reynolds was tried he accused Burns, and was also acquitted, so the investigation proved a farce.

THE END IN SIGHT.

The news from the Philippines today is about the best news that has come from that far-away archipelago since Dewey smashed Montejo's fleet nearly a year ago. Aguinaldo's army has been defeated, cut to pieces and the rebel chieftain is suing for peace. It is evident from the dispatches that the end of the war in the Philippines is near its end. The fighting Filipinos have had enough and want to quit. As soon as Aguinaldo will abandon his pretentions that there is a government other than American authority in the islands and that he is the head of it, General Otis will quit fighting him.

The Filipinos have discovered to be altogether true that of which they have been repeatedly warned. They have learned that in taking up the sword against the United States they have not had the mimicry of warfare that was the history of their fighting against Spain. They have encountered the authority of a government that is limitless in resources, determined in spirit and possessing generals and fighting men who never quit until there is victory to record. Since the Filipinos made their treacherous attack on the American lines early in February they have been pressed without cessation, have been fought without rest, have known nothing but a succession of disasters and retreats. They cannot stand the awful perseverence of American soldiers. They have had enough.

It is a desire heavy on the hearts of all Americans that the war in the Philippines shall end. The Filipinos are misguided. They mistake the intent of the American government. If they will now lay down their arms good government with peace and prosperity will be the orderly process of affairs in the archipelago.

FIGHT FOR CARNEY.

President Power Notified of the Appeal.

The Buffaloes Win the First Game From Indianapolis—Base Ball Notes.

The Fort Wayne management received President Power's written notification in the Carney case this morning and as a result have determined to contest the award of Will Carney to Youngstown.

President Power admits that Carney did nothing that was wrong, but holds that according to base ball law Youngstown had thirty days in which to send the player advance money, although Carney had demanded that the advance money be sent with the contract. The contract came but no money and he refused to sign, but notified Manager Truby that if the advance was not received by April 4th he would not consider the Youngstown contract. The money did not arrive on the 4th and Carney returned his unsigned Youngstown contract and attached his name to the Fort Wayne instrument. Two days later the Youngstown money came and he sent it back. Now President Power holds that Youngstown had the privilege of withholding the money thirty days.

The Fort Wayne directors and Manager Glasscock do not believe that such a finding will hold and this morning Glasscock went to Indianapolis to confer with John T. Brush, a member of the board of arbitration. President Power was notified by telegraph this morning that Fort Wayne would appeal from his decision and carry the case to the national board of arbitration.

Carney received a telegram from President Guggenheim, last evening, which reads like this:

"Report here at once. Do you need a ticket? A royal welcome awaits you."

Carney didn't answer and asserts that he will not play ball with Youngstown. He gave them all the chance to carry out an agreement, they failed to do it and he feels that inasmuch as he has been accorded such fair and fine treatment here that Fort Wayne is where he wants to stay. The board of arbitration will be requested to make a decision as soon as possible.

NOTES.

Joe Ganzell has reported in Youngstown and will play first base.

Figgemeier, who was with Minneapolis last season, has signed with New Castle.

Tim Flood was hit on the forehead with the ball at Notre Dame and now carries a big scar.

Tom Loftus wants Manager Glasscock to take a left handed twirler named Powers and give him a trial.

The Kokomos arrived in the city on the Wabash noon train. The battery order this afternoon is as follows: Sear, lf; Porter, 3b; Thomas, 3b; Zink, 1b; Letz, c; Edwards, c; McGuire, lf; DeCamp, ss; Kennedy or Vashbinder, pitcher. Manager Goble is with the team which is registered at the Wayne.

Commissioner Wilson of the internal revenue bureau has decided that base ball games by college and amateur or local clubs for which an admission fee is charged are not subject to the special tax under the act of June 13, 1898.

Babb was strictly in the game at Indianapolis yesterday. He made one hit, one put-out and four assists and was at the front end of a fast double play. Charley will show those Western leaguers how to play third base this season.

The Toledos beat the Columbian Giants Wednesday with Wilson in the box. The big colored twirler was wild, however, and allowed the Mud Hens five runs in the first inning. He settled down afterward, but couldn't keep the ball over the plate and Miller relieved him.

The base ball directors could not reach an agreement with John H. Bass, and it will therefore be impossible for them to move back the the left field fence at the new base ball park. Contractor Borkenstein is today building the left field fence higher to prevent a view from Clinton street.

Manager Glasscock has decided to pitch Brodie in the first Toledo game next Sunday. A big delegation of Fort Wayneites are going to the Lake City on Dick Thompson's excursion over the Wabash and they will "root" for Brodie just as hard as for any other twirler. The train leaves at 7 a. m. and the team will accompany the excursionists.

Fort Wayne shut out the Notre Dames yesterday morning and the young man who has been sending complete scores to the Chicago papers didn't have the nerve to send in the full score for this game. Fort Wayne showed the collegians in the last game that they were only after practice and didn't have to let them win a game. Three of Notre Dames' best twirlers couldn't stop the locals.

The Eagle Stars have organized and are willing to meet any team in the city whose players are under seventeen years old. The line up of the Stars is as follows: James McVey, left field; Charles Geary, first base; William Achner, short stop; George Guley, third base; Frank Cromb, catcher; Walter Fromuth, right field and pitcher; Claude Birthaway, right field and pitcher; C. Kemp, center field.

Advices from Ed Herr are that he has been ill with a bad fever but is somewhat improved and may be in Fort Wayne on Sunday. His condition is such, however, that it is not believed he will be able to pitch for some time. If Carney cannot play here Manager Glasscock will be compelled to sign another twirler. It will hardly be Bean as his terms indicate that he thinks the Fort Wayne management owns a gold mine.

WOMANLY

A sweet woman, the picture of health, speaking with enthusiasm, said, "I don't see why you do not send out women to talk to women about the merits of Pabst Malt Extract, The "Best" Tonic. There are so many women that are run down, with nerves shattered, with a lack of vitality, feeling a sort of restless indecision which is an outgrowth of over-exertion. If you could only get a woman who knows as well as I do how "Best" Tonic will build one up, and who has enough earnestness to tell them about it, you would certainly have largely increased sales. There is Mrs. —, who was as thin as she could be, and her poor little baby, puny and undeveloped. I told her about "Best" Tonic. In three weeks you ought to see the difference. The improvement is something great; mother and baby both feel it and show it."

A FEW DIVORCES.

Four New Suits Filed in Two Courts.

Two Men and Two Women Are the Plaintiffs--Court Items of Interest.

Jessie Stackhouse vs. John Stackhouse was one of the divorce cases heard by Judge Hench. The allegations were cruel and inhuman treatment and refusal of defendant to live with plaintiff. The divorce was granted to plaintiff, who was given $500 alimony. The four children were given into the custody of the defendant until further orders of the court.

Another divorce case filed was that of Geraldine Lane vs. E. F. Lane. The complaint could not be found, neither was the case entered on the entry docket, and Clerk Bolot was too busy to answer The Sentinel reporter when he tried to find out something about where the complaint was. There was no receipt for the complaint and it may be lost.

Jennie Young has commenced suit for divorce from John G. Young, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. They were married August 4, 1886, and separated April 26, 1899. Plaintiff alleges that on April 23 last defendant kicked and choked her and has continued to abuse her. She asks for the custody of the two children, Homer G., aged 12 years, and Myrtle Fontana, aged 2 years.

Wallace W. Huntsman petitions for a divorce from Susie E. Huntsman, alleging adultery.

Margaretta Rushton, who was granted a divorce from Frank E. Rushton four years ago, asks that it be made of record, thus fulfilling all requirements of the law for a legal separation.

CRIMINAL CASES.

John Carroll, through his attorney, John Aiken, to-day entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and grand larceny and was sentenced by Judge O'Rourke to serve from one to fourteen years in the northern prison.

Irving Rader was arraigned on a charge of petit larceny. His attorney, P. B. Colerick, entered a plea of not guilty and the case was set for trial May 26.

COMMISSIONERS HERE.

Auditor Harry B. Smith and Commissioners John McGregor, James E. Greer and Henry Harding, of Marion county, arrived in Fort Wayne last evening and left for Indianapolis at noon to-day. They intend to build a county infirmary at Indianapolis and were visiting the Indiana infirmaries. They were especially pleased with the Allen county infirmary and said that it was the best managed in the state. They had intended building the superintendent's residence as a part of the infirmary building, but changed their minds when they saw Superintendent Felts' residence. They admitted that Fort Wayne would have one of the finest court houses in the country.

SCHELL STILL IN JAIL.

J. F. Schell's friends have been unable to furnish bond, which has been reduced to $2,000. The prisoner was very ill yesterday, and his condition today is not at all improved. Friends are fearful that if he remains in jail he cannot live. The effort to secure bail has not been abandoned, and it is believed by his attorney that Mr. Schell will soon be released.

COURT NOTES.

The case of Michael Finney vs. the Pennsylvania railway has been dismissed by Judge Hench. It has been pending in the superior court for ten years. Once the case was carried to the supreme court and there reversed and sent back for trial. Now the plaintiff has abandoned the suit.

Washington, April 28.—Secretary Hay this afternoon was notified by the French ambassador that Spain would accept through him the $20,000,000 to be paid under the treaty of peace for the Philippines. The payment will be made to the ambassador as soon as the president returns.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

What came near being a fatal accident occurred at the Fox bakery this morning about 8 o'clock. Several workmen were on the roof engaged in the work of removing the cornice at the south end of the building and had piled several hundred bricks on the roof when one of the joists was noticed to loosen. One of the workmen, Charles F. Harris, of 19 East Williams street, started to remove the bricks and had carried away about a hundred when the roof gave way, precipitating him into the room below. Providentially several boards fell upon him in such a way as to prevent the rest of the bricks from doing him any serious injury, though one of his arm bones was broken in the fall. The fall stunned him and it was several minutes before he could extract himself from th debris. He was able to walk to the office of Dr. J. E. Miller, who set the bone. It may be several weeks before the young man will be able to use his arm.

The employes of the Wayne hotel will play another game of base ball with a nine from the Randall next Wednesday. The original intention was to play the game Thursday, but on mature reflection the boys have concluded not to play a counter attraction to the opening of the league season.

Mrs. Albert Middaugh was taken to her home near Ossian yesterday. She was operated upon for tumor by Dr. M. F. Porter two or three weeks ago and has been confined to the hospital ever since. The operation was successful and it is believed the lady will soon be as strong and healthy as ever. She was accompanied to her home by her aunt, Mrs. M. Melsheimer, of 207 West Berry street.

Owing to a mistake, it was announced in last night's Sentinel that an entertainment to be given by the pupils of the International Business college, when it should have been the pupils of the Fort Wayne Business college The musical program which was presented was thouroughly enjoyed by the large audience. New improvements are constantly being added to the People's store. The latest in this line has been the placing of several dozen new seats They are fastened to the floor and can be raised and lowered as ocasion requires, always there, and can be put out of the customer's way when necessary. They are a great innovation and so far are proving very popular. Also a new bicycle rack has ben placed in front of the store. It will accommodate twenty wheels. It is the largest in the city.

TO PUBLISH A PAPER.

A new field has been opened to the 1,500 convicts in Sing Sing prison, says a New York news letter. They are to publish a weekly newspaper, and the first number will be distributed among the men on Saturday. The name selected is the Star of Hope. It will consist of four pages and the make-up will be done by the convicts. Warden Sage, the originator of the novel plan, will be the managing editor, or news censor of the new publication. He was busy today reading and revising matter submitted by convicts. Sing Sing prison has an extensive and up to date printing establishment and the "copy" from the inmates which escapes the blue pencil of the warden wil be set up by convict printers in the shop and then run off on the press. The warden has for some time had in contemplation the publication of the newspaper. Speaking of it Thursday, he said:

"It will be occupation at least and it will conduce to mental training All of the inmates of the institution are invited to submit articles. Naturally all cannot be published, but each man will have the benefit resulting from the effort."

The name of the editor or of any of the men furnishing items will not be published. The Star of Hope will go outside of the prison. Its name is acompliment to Mrs. Ballington Booth.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

A REMARKABLE STORY FOUNDED ON FACT—ONE OF THE CHAPTERS THAT HAVE MADE KIPLING'S "CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS" A POPULAR BOOK.

In all of Kipling's many books, famous for their dash and vigor, no passage of equal length is more vivid than the description, in "Captains Courageous," of Harvey Cheyne's rush across the continent, to meet the son whom he had mourned as dead. This is said to have been based on a "record" trip between the same points--San Diego, California, and Boston, Mass.—made by a western railway president in 1895. Mr. Kipling's description shows a singular knowledge of American railway men and methods, as well as of American character. By permission of The Century Co., we print herewith the passage in question, from Chapter IX. of "Captains Courageous."

Whatever his private sorrows may be, a multimillionaire, like any other workingman, should keep abreast of his business. Harvey Cheyne, senior, had gone East late in June to meet a woman broken down, half mad, who dreamed day and night of her son drowning in the gray seas. He had surrounded her with doctors, trained nurses, massage women, and even faith-cure companions, but they were useless. Mrs. Cheyne lay still and moaned, or talked of her boy by the hour together to any one who would listen. Hope she had none, and who could offer it? All she needed was assurance that drowning did not hurt; and her husband watched to guard lest she should make the experiment. Of his own sorow he spoke little—hardly realized the depth of it till he caught himself asking the calendar on his writing-desk, "What's the use of going on?"

There had always lain a pleasant notion at the back of his head that, some day, when he had rounded off everything and the boy had left college, he would take his son to his heart and lead him into his possessions. Then that boy, he argued, as busy fathers do, would instantly become his companion, partner and ally, and there would follow splendid years of great works carried out together—the old head backing the young fire. Now his boy was dead—lost at sea, as it might have been a Swede sailor from one of Cheyne's big ten-ships; the wife was dying, or, worse; he himself was trodden down by platoons of women and doctors and maids and attendants; worried almost beyond endurance by the shift and change of her poor restless whims; hopeless, with no heart to meet his many enemies.

He had taken the wife to his raw new palace in San Diego, where she and her people occupied a wing of great price, and Cheyne, in a veranda-room, between a secretary and a typewriter, who was also a telegraphist, toiled along wearily from day to day. There was a war of rates among four western railroads in which he was supposed to be interested; a devastating strike had developed in his lumber camps in Oregon, and the legislature of the state of California, which has no love for its makers, was preparing open war against him.

Ordinarily he would have accepted battle ere it was offered, and have waged a pleasant and unscrupulous campaign. But now he sat limply, his soft black hat pushed forward on to his nose, his big body shrunk inside his loose clothes, staring at his boots or the Chinese junks in the bay, and assenting absently to the secretary's questions as he opened the Saturday mail.

Cheyne was wondering how much it would cost to drop everything and pull out. He carried huge insurances, could buy himself royal annuities, and between one of his places in Colorado and a little society (that would do the wife good), say in Washington and in the South Carolina Islands, a man might forget plans that had come to nothing. On the other hand . . . .

The click of the typewriter stopped; the girl was looking at the secretary, who had turned white.

He passed Cheyne a telegram repeated from San Francisco:

"Picked up by fishing schooner We 're Here having fallen off boat great times on Banks fishing all well waiting Gloucester Mass care Disko Troop for money or orders wire what shall do and how is mama Harvey N. Cheyne."

The father let it fall, laid his head down on the roller-top of the shut desk, and breathed heavily. The secretary ran for Mrs. Cheyne's doctor, who found Cheyne pacing to and fro.

"What—what d' you think of it? Is it possible? Is there any meaning to it? I can't quite make it out," he cried.

"I can," said the doctor. "I lose seven thousand a year—that's all." He thought of the struggling New York practice he had dropped at Cheyne's imperious bidding, and returned the telegram with a sigh.

"You mean you'd tell her? May be a fraud."

"What's the motive?" said the doctor, coolly. "Detection 's too certain. It's the boy sure enough."

Enter a French maid, impudently, as an indispensable one who is kept on only by large wages.

"Mrs. Cheyne she say you must come at once. She think you are seek."

The master of thirty millions bowed his head meekly and followed Suzanne; and a thin, high voice on the upper landing of the great white-wood staircase cried: "What is it? What has happened?"

No doors could keep out the shriek that rang through the echoing house a moment later, when her husband blurted out the news.

"And that's all right," said the doctor, serenely, to the typewriter. "About the only medical statement in novels with any truth to it is that joy don't kill, Miss Kinzey."

"I know it; but we've a heap to do first." Miss Kinzey was from Milwaukee, somewhat direct of speech; and as her fancy leaned towards the secretary, she divined there was work in hand. He was looking earnestly at the vast roller-map of America on the wall.

"Milsom, we're going right across. Private car—straight through—Boston. Fix the connections," shouted Cheyne down the staircase.

"I thought so."

The secretary turned to the typewriter, and their eyes met (out of that was born a story—nothing to do with this story.) She looked inquiringly, doubtful of his resources. He signed to her to move to the Morse as a general brings brigades into action. Then he swept his hand musician wise through his hair, regarded the ceiling, and set to work, while Miss Kinzey's white fingers called up the Continent of America.

"Yep." Miss Kinzey nodded between clicks as the secretary looked at his watch.

"Ready? 'Send "Constance," private car, here, and arrange for special to leave here Sunday in time to connect with New York Limited at Sixteenth Street, Chicago, Tuesday next.'"

Click—click—click! "Couldn't you better that?"

"Not on those grades. That gives 'em sixty hours from here to Chicago. They won't gain anything by taking a special east of that. Ready? 'Also arrange with Lake Shore and Michigan Southern to take "Constance" on New York Central and Hudson River Buffalo to Albany, and B. and A. the same Albany to Boston. Indispensable I should reach Boston Wednesday evening. Be sure nothing prevents. Have also wired Canniff, Toucey and Barnes.'—Sign, Cheyne."

Miss Kinzey nodded, and the secretary went on.

"Now then. Canniff, Toucey, and Barnes, of course. Ready? 'Canniff, Chicago. Please take my private car "Constance" from Santa Fe at Sixteenth Street next Tuesday p. m. on N. Y. Limited through to Buffalo and deliver N. Y. C. for Albany.'—Ever bin to N'York, Miss Kinzey? We'll go some day.—Ready? 'Take car Buffalo to Albany on Limited Tuesday p. m.' That's for Toucey."

"Haven't bin to Noo York, but I know that!" with a toss of the head.

"Beg pardon. Now. Boston and Albany, Barnes, same instructions from Albany through to Boston. Leave three-five p. m. (you needn't wire that); arrive nine-five p. m. Wednesday. That covers everything Wade will do, but it pays to shake up the managers."

"It's great, said Miss Kinzey, with a look of admiration. This was the kind of a man she understood and appreciated.

"'Tisn't bad," said Milsom, modestly. "Now any one but me would have lost thirty hours and spent a week working out the run, instead of handing him over to the Santa Fe straight through to Chicago."

"But see here, about that Noo York Limited. Chauncey Depew himself couldn't hitch his car to her," Miss Kinzey suggested, recovering herself.

"Yes, but this isn't Chauncey. It's Cheyne—lightning. It goes."

"Even so. Guess we'd better wire the boy. You've forgotten that, anyhow."

"I'll ask."

When he returned with the father's message bidding Harvey meet them in Boston at an appointed hour he found Miss Kinzey laughing over the keys. Then Milsom laughed, too, for the frantic clicks from Los Angeles ran: "We want to know why—why—why? General uneasiness developed and spreading."

Ten minutes later Chicago appealed to Miss Kinzey in these words: "If crime of century is maturing please warn friends in time. We are all getting to cover here."

This was capped by a message from Topeka (and wherein Topeka was concerned even Milsom could not guess): "Don't shoot, Colonel. We'll come down."

Cheyne smiled grimly at the consternation of his enemies when the telegrams were laid before him. "They think we're on the war-path. Tell 'em we don't feel like fighting just now, Milsom. Tell 'em what we're going for. I guess you and Miss Kinzey had better come along, though it isn't likely I shall do any business on the road. Tell 'em the truth—for once."

So the truth was told. Miss Kinzey clicked in the sentiment while the secretary added the memorable quotation, "Let us have peace," and in board rooms two thousand miles away the representatives of sixty-three millions dollars' worth of variously manipulated railroad interests breathed more freely. Cheyne was flying to meet the only son, so mirnculously restored to him. The bear was seeking his cub, not the bulls. Hard men who had their knives drawn to fight for their financial lives put away the weapons and wished him God-speed, while half a dozen panic-smitten tin-pot roads perked up their heads and spoke of the wonderful things they would have done had not Cheyne buried the hatchet.

It was a busy week-end among the wires; for, now that their anxiety was removed, men and cities hastened to accommodate. Los Angeles called to San Diego and Barstow that the Southern California engineers might know and be ready in their lonely round houses; Barstow passed the word to the Atlantic and Pacific; and Albuquerque flung it the whole length of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe management, even into Chicago. An engine, combination car with crew, and the great and gilded "Constance" private car were to be expedited over those two thousand three hundred and fifty miles. The train would take precedence of one hundred and seventy-seven others meeting and passing; despatchers and crews of every one of those said trains must be notified. Sixteen locomotives, sixteen engineers and sixteen firemen would be needed—each and every one the best available. Two and one-half minutes would be allowed for changing engines. "Warn the men, and arrange tanks and chutes accordingly; for Harvey Cheyne is in a hurry, a hurry—a hurry," sang the wires. "Forty miles an hour will be expected, and division superintendents will accompany this special over their respective divisions. From San Diego to Sixteenth Street, Chicago, let the magic carpet be laid down. Hurry! oh, hurry!"

"It will be hat," said Cheyne, as they rolled out of San Diego in the dawn of Sunday. "We're going to hurry, mama, just as fast as ever we can; but I really don't think there's any good of your putting on your bonnet and gloves yet. You'd much better lie down and take your medicine. I'd play you a game of dominoes, but it's Sunday."

"I'll be good. Oh, I will be good. Only—taking off my bonnet makes me feel as if we'd never get there."

"Try to sleep a little, mama, and we'll be in Chicago before you know."

"But it's Boston, father. Tell them to hurry."

The six-foot drivers were hammering their way to San Bernardino and the Mohave wastes, but this was no grade for speed. That would come later. The heat of the desert followed the heat of the hills as they turned east to the Needles and the Colorado River. The car cracked in the utter drouth and glare, and they put crushed ice to Mrs. Cheyne's neck, and toiled up the long, long grades, past Ash Fork, towards Flagstaff, where the forests and quarries are, under the dry, remote skies. The needle of the speed-indicator flicked and wagged to and fro; the cinders rattled on the roof, and a whirl of dust sucked after the whirling wheels. The crew of the combination sat on their bunks, panting in their shirt-sleeves, and Cheyne found himself among them shouting old, old stories of the railroad that every trainman knows, above the roar of the car. He told them about his son, and how the sea had given up its dead, and they nodded and spat and rejoiced with him; asked after "her, back there," and whether she could stand it if the engineer "let her out a piece," and Cheyne thought she could. Accordingly, the great five-horse was "let out" from Flagstaff to Winslow, till a division superintendent protested.

But Mrs. Cheyne, in the boudoir state room, where the French maid, sallow-white with fear, clung to the silver door-handle, only moaned a little and begged her husband to bid them "hurry." And so they dropped the dry sands and moon-struck rocks of Arizona behind them, and grilled on till the crash of the couplings and the wheeze of the brake-hose told them they were at Coolidge by the Continental Divide.

Three bold and experienced men—cool, confident, and dry when they began; white, quivering, and wet when they finished their trick at those terrible wheels—swung her over the great lift from Auburquerque to Glorietta and beyond Springer, up and up to the Raton Tunnel on the state line, whence they dropped rocking into La Junta, had sight of the Arkansaw, and tore down the long slope to Dodge City, where Cheyne took comfort once again from setting his watch an hour ahead.

There was very little talk in the car. The secretary and typewriter sat together on the stamped Spanish-leather cushions by the plate-glass observation-window at the rear end, watching the surge and ripple of the ties crowded back behind them, and, it is believed, making notes of the scenery. Cheyne moved nervously between his own extravagant gorgeousness and the naked necessity of the combination, an unlit cigar in his teeth, till the pitying crews forgot that he was their tribal enemy, and did their best to entertain him.

At night the bunched electrics lit up that distressful palace of all the luxuries, and they fared sumptuously, swinging on through the emptiness of abject desolation. Now they heard the swish of a water-tank, and the gutteral voice of a Chinaman, the clink-clink of hammers that tested the Krupp steel wheels, and the oath of a tramp chased off the rear platform; now the solid crash of coal shot into the tender; and now a beating back of noises as they flew past a waiting train. Now they looked out into great abysses, a trestle purring beneath their tread, or up to rocks that barred out half the stars. Now scaur and ravine changed and rolled back to jagged mountains on the horizon's edge, and now broke into hills lower and lower, till at last came the true plains.

At Dodge City an unknown hand threw in a copy of a Kansas paper containing some sort of an interview with Harvey, who had evidently fallen in with an enterprising reporter, telegraphed on from Boston. The joyful journalese revealed that it was beyond question their boy, and it soothed Mrs. Cheyne for a while. Her one word "hurry" was conveyed by the crews to the engineers at Nickerson, Topeka and Marceline, where the grades are easy, and they brushed the Continent behind them. Towns and villages were close together now, and a man could feel here that he moved among people.

"I can't see the dial, and my eyes ache so. What are we doing?"

"The very best we can, mama. There's no sense in getting in before the Limited. We'd only have to wait."

"I don't care. I want to feel we're moving. Sit down and tell me the miles."

Cheyne sat down and read the dial for her (there were some miles which stand for records to this day), but the seventy-foot car never changed its long steamer-like roll, moving through the heat with the hum of a giant bee. Yet the speed was not enough for Mrs. Cheyne; and the heat, the remorseless August heat, was making her giddy; the clock-hands would not move, and when, oh, when would they be in Chicago?

It is not true that, as they changed engines at Fort Madison, Cheyne passed over to the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers an endowment sufficient to enable them to fight him and his fellows on equal terms for evermore. He paid his obligations to engineers and firemen as he believed they deserved, and only his bank knows what he gave the crews who had sympathized with him. It is on record that the last crew took entire charge of switching operations at Sixteenth street, because "she" was in a doze at last, and Heaven was to help any one who bumped her.

Now the highly paid specialist who conveys the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Limited from Chicago to Elkhart is something of an autocrat, and he does not approve of being told how to back up to a car. None the less he handled the "Constance" as if she might have been a load of dynamite, and when the crew rebuked him, they did it in whispers and dumb show.

"Pshaw!" said the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe men, discussing life later, "we weren't runnin' for a record. Harvey Chyne's wife, she were sick back, an' we didn't want to jounce her. 'Come to think of it, our runnin' time from San Diego to Chicago was 57.54. You can tell that to them Eastern way-trains. When we're tryin' for a record, we'll let you know."

To the Western man (though this would not please either city) Chicago and Boston are cheek by jowl, and some railroads encourage the delusion. The Limited whirled the "Constance" into Buffalo and the arms of the New York Central and Hudson River (illustrious magnates with white whiskers and gold charms on their watch-chains boarded her here to talk a little business to Cheyne), who slid gracefully into Albany, where the Boston and Albany completed the run from tide-water to tide-water—total time, eighty-seven hours and thirty-five minutes, or three days, fifteen hours and one-half. Harvey was waiting for them.

Miss Gertie Wilson, of this city, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Clara Goble, of Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Curtis have returned to their hom in Warsaw.

is more sinned against than sinning. Yes, it is. And, in the very fitness of things perhaps that's why it aches. It makes the punishment fit the crime of tooth neglect. Just take counsel from the fact that great toothaches from little cavities grow, and from the fact that we fill tooth cavities, preventing toothache; can often save aching teeth in the same way for years of future usefulness; and can always end the horrible aches of teeth that can't be saved by extracting them by easy modern methods without pain.

LEG CRUSHED BY CAR WHEELS

Brakeman Moriarty the Unfortunate.

WAS COUPLING CARS.

Lost His Footing at a Critical Moment.

The Tallest Train Crew in the State--News of Shop and Rail.

E. B. Moriarty is lying upon a cot at St. Joseph hospital with injuries received at Avilla, Ind., at 10 o'clock last evening. The unfortunate man is employed as a brakeman on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road and met with the accident while trying to couple cars. He was running on the track, when he fell and the wheels of one truck ran upon him, terribly bruising the flesh of his right leg. Luckily the bone was not injured and Mr. Moriarty will escape amputation, though it was at first feared he would lose the limb. He was brought in from Avilla on passenger train No. 6 at midnight. Dr. W. H. Myers is the attending surgeon.

An Unfortunate Switchman.

Albert Seeley, a switchman belonging to the Pennsylvania warehouse engine crew, stepped upon a guard yesterday afternoon and severely sprained his left ankle. His place in the crew has been taken by J. Malcomb. Mr. Seeley will probably be unable to work for two or three weeks.

Two Special Trains.

Two special trains left the city this morning over the Pittsburg road, westbound. One bore J. C. Spencer, Thomas Rodd, T. B. McKim and E. G. Ericson on their inspection tour of the property, in the interest of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago company, and the other bore William Borner, the division freight agent, who is also out upon an inspection tour. He was accompanied by C. E. Walton, the trainmaster, and will stop at all points where there are freight agents.

Had His Thumb Lacerated.

John Connelly, an operator of a brass boring machine in the Pittsburg shops, had his left thumb caught in the machine and badly cut yesterday afternoon. The injury will disable him for some time. Dr. Stomen dressed the wound.

Will Build Bicycle House.

So numerous have become the wheelmen at the Pittsburg shops that it has become necessary to provide a place in which to store the wheels while the men are at work. Henry Shuster, the "boss" carpenter, has been instructed to erect a shed on the lawn just east of the store room and he will commence work upon it in a few days. The structure will be thirty feet in diameter, with a pavilion roof. In its center will be a circular rack about twelve feet in diameter, which will accommodate 110 wheels. The sides will not be boarded up, the extension of the roof over the wheel space being deemed sufficient to protect the wheels from rain.

Force Gradually Increasing.

Every day adds to the working force in the electric works, there being 140 men employed there today. The additions this morning were in the persons of H. Schwartz, a patternmaker, and Marion O'Hara and Rudolph Claymiller, lampmakers. As soon as the material ordered from the main works at Schenectady arrives, more men will be given work and it is safe to say that inside of a month over 300 men will be employed. The works resumed the shipment of dynamos today, the most important being a 750-light alternator to East St. Louis, together with the necessary trimmings for a lighting plant.

Laying Off Enginemen.

Two or three months ago, when traffic on the Wabash was the heaviest in the history of the road, the company was forced to hire a number of new firemen and promote many of its old firemen to engineers. Business has now assumed normal conditions and the company finds it has a surplus of enginemen. Wednesday twenty-one of the firemen who were the last to be hired were dismissed, and five of the old employes were reduced from engineers to firemen. This is one of the bad features of railroading for a livlihood. The men engaged in it never feel that they are secure in their situation.

Electric Union Elects Officers.

Yesterday afternoon, at the close of working hours, the Electric Relief union held its semi-annual election, with the following result:

President—Louis Fryer.

Vice President—Peter Kindt.

Corresponding Secretary—Eugene McLaughlan.

Financial Secretary—Fred Kolfhaber.

Treasurer—Harry Templar.

President Fryer then appointed the following to serve as a relief committee: Miss Kittie Golden, Joseph Ganzer, George Platts, William Sieboldt, Nelson Crawford, Frank Closs, George Heger and Harry Amman.

Investigating Committee—William Mills, Nelson Howe and Harry Boess.

William Martin and Miss Rose Bittokofer have been authorized to collect and receipt for all dues and assessments.

M. S. Willson, the retiring treasurer, submitted his report, which covered the two years that the union has been in existence, he being the treasurer during the entire time. It showed that $1,590.50 had been collected, and $1,548.55 had been disbursed in sick benefits, leaving a balance in the treasury of $51.95. The union is confined strictly to the employes of the works, who maintain it by paying 25 cents per month. A sick member is entitled to $5 per week for twelve weeks.

Wabash Officials Here Last Night.

A half-dozen or more of the Wabash officials spent the night in the city, looking after matters which come under their respective supervision. In the party were Division Freight Agent W. A. Spratt, Roadmaster A. B. Adams, Trainmaster C. E. Wells and Bridge Superintendent W. S. Danos. They left this morning for their homes.

To Adopt a New Method of Shop Book Keeping.

Foreman Hogan, of the machine room of the shops, was summoned to Pittsburg last night by the Pennsylvania officials. The company contemplates a change in the manner of keeping records of work and material used in repairing engines, so that the cost of every engine in the service can be learned quickly whenever such information is desired, and Mr. Hogan's trip to Pittsburg is for that purpose. The new system, when finally adopted, will be put into service over the entire northwestern and southwestern system of the Pennsylvania lines.

Tallest Crew in Indiana.

The Nickel Plate claims to have the tallest train crew in the state. The three men who compose it aggregate in height eighteen feet and eight inches. The personnel of the crew, with the height of each member, is as follows:

Conductor P. J. DeVitt, six feet, two and one-half inches.

Brakeman A. A. Bailie, six feet, one and one-half inches.

Flagman W. S. Barlowe, six feet and four inches.

These gentlemen present magnificent physiques and are the embodiment of health, sobriety and industry. They are always ready to respond when their services are required.

Death of An Operator.

George I. Wirth, telegrapher in the Pennsylvania offices, went to Sandusky, Ohio, this morning to attend the funeral of his brother Michael Wirth, who died in that city yesterday. The deceased was also an operator, being employed in the offices of the Lake Shore company. He was a member of "McKinley's Own" regiment, as the Eighth Ohio is called, and served in the war with Spain. The funeral will take place next Sunday.

General and Personal.

A number of firemen who were promoted to engineers on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois have been set back to firing.

The Grand Trunk freight handlers who struck at Toronto for higher pay have abandoned the fight and decided the strike off.

Nickel Plate Engineer M. W. O'Brien, who had been off duty celebrating the advent of a son, the first born, has reported for duty.

Nickel Plate engine No. 31 is again in the freight service between Fort Wayne and Bellevue. Engineer Louis Balzer and Fireman E. V. Mills compose the crew.

The special election in Jay county, to vote a subsidy for the Portland and Camden railroad, resulted in the defeat of the enterprise, the majority against it being 210.

Engineer Philip Titus, of the Pittsburg, is off duty on account of sickness.

H. H. Danielson has quit his position in the Wabash boiler shops and will return to his old home, Peru, Ind. Poor health is the cause.

Conductor Andy Dawson is filling the place of Owen Owens in the passenger service on the Pittsburg. The latter is taking a vacation.

Switch engine 15 left the Fort Wayne shops this morning for Chicago, where it will be placed into service. It has received general repairs.

The city council of Findlay, Ohio, is trying to force the Lake Erie and Western to plank a crossing, and an interesting fight is on over the matter.

Ed Cleary, the oil house man; William Direly, Edward Quinn, Henry Dryer and John Rost, of the Pittsburg blacksmith shop, are sick and off duty.

V. P. Allen, a copyist, is working for George Wirth in the Pennsylvania offices during the absence of that gentleman on account of the death of his brother.

Dr. M. F. Porter was called upon today to dress a wounded finger for John Bilser, an employe at the Wabash shops. The digit was injured by a sharp piece of steel.

Westbound Pennsylvania train No. 15 was two and one-half hours late in reaching this city this morning, the delay being due to a broken engine on the eastern division of the road.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul made in the third week of April the largest earnings in the history of the road, they being $77,000 ahead of those of the corresponding week of 1898.

H. Geise, an inspector of cars at the east yards of the Pittsburg, received a telegram last evening, informing him of the death of his father, who resided at Delphos, Ohio. He left immediately for that city, being accompanied by his wife.

The practice of making a lower rate for Sunday travel is growing in popularity with the railways and the public. It is predicted that the Sunday excursion business this summer will far exceed that of any previous year. Every road in this territory will engage in it.

While at work this morning, O. H. Kirkpatrick, yard engineer in the Lake Shore yards, was taken violently ill and had to be removed to his home on Third street. G. W. Lynn, the round house foreman, has taken charge of the yard engine until Mr. Kirkpatrick is able to resume work.

Frank Scheid, foreman of the Pennsylvania company's round house at Toledo, was here yesterday, moving his family and household goods to that city, where he will reside. Mr. Scheid called at the Pittsburg shops to say farewell to his old comrades before departing for his new home.

Net earnings of the Santa Fe road for the month of March were $1,101,869, an increase of $143 313 over the same month in 1896. For the nine months of the fiscal year, ending March 31, the net earnings of the road have been $9,264,918, an increase of $856,946 over the corresponding period of preceding fiscal year.

A new method of spotting conductors has been introduced on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas. Passengers are solicited for affidavits to the effect that they paid cash fares by a man who claims to be an employe of the legal department of the company. He represents that some one is seeking to collect damages of the road upon a fraudulent claim, and that he is getting the affidavits to protect the company and the conductor.

TO PROCLAIM THE NEW LAWS

Time Near for Governor to Act.

THE REFORM LAWS.

For County and Township Government.

Other Laws Which Will Become Effective With the Proclamation.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28.—The secretary of state has received receipts from all except six counties of the state, showing that they have received copies of the acts of 1899. The counties that had not been heard form up to this afternoon's mails were Porter, Hamilton, Madison, Morgan, Vigo and White. All these counties, except Porter, are easily accessible. The laws were sent to Porter county last Tuesday, and the copies for the other five counties were sent out from the secretary of state's office yesterday. George Gonser, deputy secretary of state, who has charge of mailing the laws and the keeping of the receipts, said yesterday that he expected that receipts from all the counties would be in by to-day. It might be, he thought, that the late mails to-day would bring these receipts. In that case the governor could issue his proclamation to-morrow putting the laws in force. The proclamation will be issued as soon as all the counties have been heard from. The system adopted this year by the secretary of state in insuring the return of the receipts, both by express and registered letter, has worked well, and there has been no delay.

COUNTY AND TOWNSHIP REFORM.

When the proclamation of the governor is published all the laws enacted by the general assembly of 1899 will be in force. Many of the important laws contained emergency clauses, and went in force as soon as they had been signed by the governor. Many other important ones will not be in effect until the governor's proclamation has been issued. Among these are the county reform law, which creates a county council in each county of the state, to consist of seven members. The members must be voters and resident freeholders, and can not hold any other public office. They shall not be interested in any contract of the county under penalty of a fine of $1,000 and imprisonment for not more than six months. The council will transact business for the county, and each county officer is bound to submit to the council estimates of the expenses of his office for the ensuing year. The first election of the council will occur in November. The members are to be appointed meantime by the judge of the circuit court.

The township reform bill is another that will go into effect with the proclamation of the governor. It provides for an advisory board in every township of the state of three resident freeholders and qualified voters of the township, whose duty shall be to fix the tax levy, receive estimates from the township trustee of his probable expenditures for the next year and to make inquiries into the necessity for proposed expenditures of the township. The board may make additional appropriations in cases of emergency.

ANOTHER COUNTY ACT.

In the line of county administration, also, is the law requiring county commissioners to have on file in the auditor's office plans and specifications for proposed work before they may let contracts for such work—for building any court house, jail or other county or township building. The act also provides for the publication for at least six weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county, of the letting of the contract, and for the posting of notices of such letting in five public places in the county. The letting of a bridge contract shall be advertised in a similar manner for at least two weeks before the contract is let. The commissioners must also let a contract to the lowest responsible bidder and must require all contractors to give a bond, on which any unpaid material man or workmen may maintain action. Any commissioners violating this act are liable to a fine of not less than $500 and not more than $1,000, each, to which may be added imprisonment for a period of not more than six months.

The act also provides for the appointment of a fee and salary commission, which appointment has already been made by the governor. The work of the commission will begin when the laws go into effect, and its work will be that of fixing a complete system of fees and salaries for every public officer in the state and to make a report of its work at the next session of the general assembly.

After the new laws are in force any county may offer rewards for the apprehension of criminals whenever the board of county commissioners shall be satisfied that a murder or lynching has been committed in the county, and the perpetrator or perpetrators of such outrage have escaped to parts unknown. The reward to be offered must not be in excess of $500.

The pharmacy law will not be effective until July 1, after which time all persons who sell medicines or poisons in any manner than that specified by the act, shall be liable to a fine of from $5 to $100 for each offense.

PURE FOOD LAW.

Along with the precaution against poisoning by careless pharmacists in preparing prescriptions, the legislature enacted a pure food law, which goes into effect with the promulgation of the acts. The law forbids any persons manufacturing or offering for sale any drug or article of food that is adulterated. Drugs are to be deemed adulterated if they are sold under the name recognized by the United States pharmacopoeia or some other standard authority, but differ from the standard of strength, quality or purity laid down therein, unless such difference is clearly set forth. The duty of enforcing this act is in the hands of the State Board of Health, which may adopt such measures as it may see fit to apprehend violators of the law. Dr. Hurty, secretary of the board, has already prepared a long list of foods and drugs, and the board expects to see that the law is rigidly enforced. The board has promised, however, not to prosecute dealers until the law is fully understood by them. The violation of this act is punishable by a fine of not less than $100, and not more than $500, and the forfeiture and destruction of the adulterated products. Another law forbids the sale of candy adulterated with any mineral poisonous substance, providing a fine of $50 to $100 for the violation of the statute.

FACTORY LAW.

A labor measure forbids the employment of any boy under sixteen, or of any girl under eighteen years of age, in any manufacturing, mercantile, or similar establishment, for longer than ten hours a day, except for the purpose of making a shorter day on Saturday. Persons employing boys and girls are required to make affidavit as to their ages. The act also prohibits the employment of women in factories from 10 o'clock at night until 6 o'clock the next morning, and also forbids the employment of "any young person" to operate an elevator. The enforcement of this law is in the hands of the state factory inspector, who also has supervision of the factories in regard to their safety and sanitation.

Another law going into force requires employers to make weekly payments for the full amount of wages due employes, and prohibits the assignment of future wages, and the assessments of fines on wages. The act does not apply to railroads or other carriers of interstate commerce.

The state factory inspector is also required to see that buildings have proper fire protection, and he is required in this particular to look after not only factories, but business and dwelling houses and assembly hall.

Applicants for license to teach in the schools of the state may, on payment of a fee, obtain permission to have their manuscripts sent directly to the state superintendent of public instruction for gradation, and if they pass they may teach in any county of the state. From the time of the publication of the laws, also, all contracts between school corporations and teachers must be made in writing, else they cannot be enforced by an action in the courts.

FOUR PERSONS ARE INJURED

Explosion at the Troy Steam Laundry.

A MACHINE BURSTS

And Flying Fragments Do Much Damage.

Many Employes Overcome by Gas--Particulars of the Accident.

Four persons were painfully injured by an explosion at the Troy Steam Laundry, on Pearl street, at 10 o'clock this morning, fourteen others were overcome by gas and the shock, and under the circumstances it seems a miracle that several of the employes that thronged the building were not killed outright.

As it is, Miss Minnie Read, of 25 Pritchard street, and Miss Mamie Myers, of 24 Randolph street, sustained fractured arms; Miss Louise Renisch, whose home is at 68 Laselle street, is painfully injured about the back and lower limbs, and Monroe Springer, the engineer, is bruised upon the arm.

One of the large centrifugal extractors running at a speed of from 900 to 1,000 revolutions per minute, exploded with frightful force and its fragments were hurled in all directions through the rooms filled with busy employes.

The extractors are used for wringing water from clothing, and consist of an open top cylindrical metal basket, the side of which is perforated with small holes. These baskets are twenty-six inches in diameter and of about the same depth. Standing upon end they revolve upon a pivot, and are speeded up to nearly 1,200 revolutions per minute, and the centrifugal force expels the water from the newly washed clothing.

It was one of these machines which let go this morning and caused the havoc. It was filled with wet clothing and without a moment's warning the machine flew into a thousand pieces, wrecking the heavy iron case which surrounded it and hurling the fragments with vicious force through the crowded room.

Monroe Springer, who was standing close by and operating the extractor, received only a bruised arm, but the three young ladies working in less exposed positions did not fare so fortunately.

One fragment struck a receptacle containing a preparation of muriatic acid used for purifying water pipes. A hole was thus cut in the tank and the room soon filled with chlorine gas which escaped. In a moment the wildest excitement prevailed, and employes rushed to the aid of the wounded. Physicians were hastily summoned and in a few moments Dr. Rosenthal, Dr. Dinnen and Dr. Calvin were on the scene.

The ambulance was called and Miss Read and Miss Myers were removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where Dr. Rosenthal and Dr. Calvin attended their injuries. Both have sustained fractures of the arm of the very worst kind. Miss Reed's injury is a compound fracture of the upper right arm near the elbow, while Miss Myers suffered a compound fracture of the right arm just below the elbow. The ladies are yet at the hospital.

Miss Renisch's injuries, while very painful, are not so severe, and she was removed to her home, where Dr. McOscar was called. Miss Renisch was struck in the back and lower limbs by fragments of the wrecked machine, and painfully bruised. She will be confined to her home for some time, but no serious results are anticipated.

In the excitement attendant upon caring for the injured the room filled with chlorine gas from the acid tank which had been penetrated, and the other young ladies in the laundry began to be overcome by the fumes. One after another was taken sick in quick succession, and Dr. Dinnen was kept busy attending them. They were assisted to residences near by, and fourteen who suffered from the effects of the gas and shock of the accident were attended by Dr. Dinnen. They were the Misses Kate Welsh, Bessie DePotty, Bertha Majors, Jessie Plank, Stella Uran, Rose Treese, Carrie Rodenbeck, Carrie Sarrazin, Lizzie Heuer, Mary Walker, Mamie Cavanagh and Ella Lawrence. Mrs. Cavanagh and a young man named Robert Pierce. These soon revived and were sent to their homes in carriages.

The accident is one for which nobody can be blamed. The machine which was wrecked had been in use about four years and was supposed to be perfectly safe. All laundries use the same sort of method for wringing the water from clothing, and while this is the first accident of its kind occurring here, Mr. Jones, the proprietor, says it quite frequently happens in other places. The cost of the wrecked machine was $150, though in his regret for the personal injuries of his employes Mr. Jones is not considering the financial loss accompanied by the accident.

HIT WITH AN EGG.

Rev. Matthews Assaulted at the Helping Hand Mission.

He Pleaded Guilty to the Charge of Malicious Trespass--Bicycle Riders Have Troubles.

Rev. Matthews delivered his usual talk last evening from the window of the Helping Hand Mission, having been released from jail on bond. While speaking some hoodlum across the street threw an egg, which struck the wall near where he was talking and he was bespattered on face and clothing. The reverend gentleman appeared in police court this morning and brought with him the bespattered coat, a satchel and lunch bucket. To the charge of malicious trespass he entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $5 and costs was assessed. A friend produced the necessary $15.50 and Matthews was not compelled to go to jail.

WITHOUT LIGHTS.

W. D. Williams and Bert Fredline were arrested last evening for riding their bicycles without a lighted lamp. In police court this morning each was fined and costed in the sum of $2.50. Mr. Williams had just purchased a new wheel and the bicycle dealer allowed him to ride an old one home for practice. There was no light on the wheel and Mr. Williams was unlucky enough to meet an officer. Now the dealer is out the $2.50.

WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Henry Ayres was arrested for selling needles and other small trinkets without a license. A fine of $1 and costs was assessed, in default of payment of which Ayres went to jail.

WHEELS ARE HEAVIER NOW.

[From the New York Sun.]

When it was announced last year that the bicycles of 1899 were likely to be heavier than those of 1898 many riders expressed surprise. They argued that a good deal of dissatisfaction was found with the wheels then in use because they were heavier than those of the two years just passed. But it appears that the report concerning the purposed increase in weight was well founded. According to the statements of some persons who have visited the wheel shops, it is extremely difficult to find a machine of this year's model that weighs, when fitted with a brake, tool bag, coasters and a tire of ordinary size, less than twenty-seven pounds, and several of the new wheels are from two to five pounds heavier than that.

Twenty-eight pound or thirty pound wheels are complained of less by men than by women. The women as a rule are not disposed to accept the explanation of dealers that the running qualities of a wheel have little to do with its weight and depend chiefly upon its general construction. They say that the high machines of 1896 have never been excelled so far as ease in peddaling is concerned, and the fact that machines at the present time are several pounds heavier than the old patterns is causing no little discussion.

Experiments in 1898 and 1897 with wheels of twenty-two pounds proved unsuccessful. They required so much repairing and so many of their parts had to be replaced before one season was ended that both riders and manufacturers became convinced of the need of machines more staunch and rigid, and the outcome was that thereafter stronger and heavier material was used in the machines' construction. But it is a great mistake to suppose that the new models run harder than the old ones. On the contrary, less exertion is needed to propel them than was required to propel the lighter machines.

The reason is this: In the last three or four years the mechanical skill necessary in making first class bicycles has been developed wonderfully. Bearings are now much more perfect than they used to be; joints are made by new processes and with greater nicety; changes in the shaping of frames render the machines of the present much easier of propulsion than their predecessors, owing to the fact that less of the rider's power is wasted than formerly, and many other modifications have taken place which go to make the question of a few pounds additional weight one of very little consequence.

A very pretty affair occurred last night at the residence of Rev. J. W. Lake, 202 East Lewis street, when the words were pronounced which made C. C. Jamison, of Hoagland, and Mis Emma Knepper, of this city, husband and wife. The bride and groom, who are well and favorably known, were attended by a few intimate friends, who with many others, wish them a happy and prosperous life.

Convince Thinking People.

When a man jumps up and down and yells at you until he is black in the face, in an effort to convince you of something, you are not convinced, simply because you know that if his statements have truth back of them, all the spectacular business is uncalled for. That is the reason Sam, Pete & Max always confine their advertising to the simple statement of facts as they exist. People who want clothing properly made, in best styles and at prices which leave no question of doubt in their minds as to the values they are getting, are coming to Sam, Pete & Max's in larger numbers every day. We do not insult your intelligence by advertising goods at half their worth, but better goods, for the money, than we offer have not yet been produced. SHILOH CHAPTER

Entertains the Eastern Star Delegates.

Received Informally and Exemplified the Degree—Veterans' Association Formed.

A large number of officers and delegates to the Eastern Star grand chapter, who remained in the city last evening, attended the regular meeting of Shiloh chapter, No. 141, and the occasion was a most happy termination to the gatherings of the week. The room was densely crowded, and there must have been at least 250 persons present. After the transaction of the regular business, the degree staff of Shiloh chapter exemplified the beautiful degree work, and at its close were simply showered with compliments upon their excellent rendition of the degree. Recitations by Miss Doty and Miss Stemen, several musical numbers, and brief addresses by the past officers present formed a most enjoyable part of the gathering, and light refreshments were served. The social session was entirely informal, and members of the order commingled pleasantly together in the closing event of the week's gathering.

VETERANS' ASSOCIATION.

Steps were taken yesterday to organize a veterans' association among the older members of the order and about twenty ladies and gentlemen joined it. Only those who have been members of the order for at least twenty-five years are eligible to membership in the Veterans' association and officers were elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Wm. H. Smythe, Indianapolis.

Vice President—Mrs. Laura A. Zimmerman, Fort Wayne.

Secretary—Mrs. Nettie Ransford, Indianapolis.

Treasurer—W. H. Smythe, Indianapolis.

LEPROSY IN INDIANA TOWN.

Princeton, Ind., April 28.—Owensville, Gibs county, is much disturbed over a supposed case of leprosy. W. A. Deel, who has had a severe case of typhoid fever, now has symptoms of the more dreaded disease. Physicians of the town differ in the diagnosis. County health officers will investigate the case.

SAM T. JACK IS DEAD.

New York, April 28.—Sam T. Jack, for many years a manager of burlesque theatrical companies, died early last evening from cancer of the liver, after an illness of six months, at his home, 336 West Thirtieth street. Until recently Mr. Jack believed he was suffering from rheumatism. He was treated in West Baden, Ind., and Hot Springs, Va., and returned to this city apparently cured. His illness developed seriously Sunday last.

The Red Men's league, of Muncie, is coming May 28, and they promise to bring a crowd of 2,000 people along to enjoy the beauties of the park. The theatrical attractions open on that day, and it is probable that this city and other towns will assist largely in swelling the Red Men's crowd.
